LABOR IS NOW AT HELM OF BRITISH EMPIRE

MAC DONALD IS PREMIER OF HOME GOVERNMENT

LYOYD GEORGE'S LIBERALS HOLD
BALANCE OF POWER IN PARLIAMENT

BY VOTING WITH CONSERVATIVES CAN DEFEAT LABOR-ITES AT WILL

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, June 4.—The home government of the far-flung British empire, with its 436,000,000 population, was turned over to labor today for the second time in history.

Stanley Baldwin, conservative prime minister for the last four and one-half years, called on the ailing king today and submitted his resignation which was accepted as a matter of course.

Ramsay MacDonald, the dour, socialist Scotsman who led his party to victory in last Thursday's general election, will call on the king tomorrow and accept the crown's invitation to form a government.

Baldwin was received by the king at his bedside in Windsor Castle, traditional seat of the Windsor line, and officially informed the sovereign that the Tory government lost its majority in the election.

Acting on precedent, the king accepted the premier's resignation and was prepared to call on MacDonald to take over the government. The labor cabinet probably will be installed before the week-end.

Final returns today made the returns complete from 609 of the 615 seats in parliament. The result of the six outstanding seats will make little difference in the parliamentary line-up, which so far is as follows:

Labor, 288.
Conservatives, 256.
Liberal, 58.
Nationalists, 3.
Independents, 2.
Prohibitionists, 1.
Constitutionalists, 1.

A majority in parliament is 308 seats, so that labor is 20 votes short of having control. Lloyd George's liberals thus hold the balance of power.

By voting with the conservatives, they can defeat the labor government almost at will; by withholding their vote, or giving part of it to labor, they can continue the MacDonald government in power indefinitely.

The best guess was that Lloyd George will sit back for the present and let labor demonstrate its intentions. Traditional British fair play demands that MacDonald be given a "sporting chance" to show his wares, and it would be suicidal to defeat him at once.

The canny Welshman can afford to wait until he catches the labor government in a weak position, where a defeat would be accepted by the country as justified.

That probably will come on foreign policy, a ticklish subject on which labor has pronounced views.

I. C. C. TO PERMIT FREIGHT POOLING BY TWO LINES

St. Paul, June 4.—(U.P.)—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized the pooling of freight from the Cuyuna range by the Northern Pacific and Soo Line railroads.

The pooling arrangement will be put into action as soon as possible, D. F. Lyons, general counsel of the Northern Pacific announced.

The pooling arrangement involves property valued at $12,000,000 and will bring about an annual saving of $325,000, railroad officials estimated. Railroad yards at Superior, Wis., and on the range will be enlarged at a cost of $250,000 to carry out the plan.

The application for permission to arrange the pool was filed April 18 and the hearing was held at Washington May 23.

The commission today sent out official notification that the petition has been granted, representatives of the railroads announced.

DEATH TOLL OF CLINIC FIRE NOW SET AT 126

Cleveland, O., June 4.—(U.P.)—Death of an employee of the Cleveland Clinic today, nearly three weeks after the disaster, brought the death toll to 126.

Miss Barbara Merwin, a clinic secretary, died at Massillon City hospital where she had been a patient for more than two weeks. Previously Miss Merwin had been discharged but returned several days ago for further treatment.

Congress Hopes for Two Months Summer Recess

INVOKE STATE LAW TO CHECK SUICIDE ATTEMPTS

Knoxville, Tenn., June 4.—(U.P.)—A state law which provides a penalty of one to five years imprisonment for anyone who attempts to commit suicide will be put in force here immediately, Attorney General Bobb and Homicide Chief Day announced today following two suicides and three unsuccessful attempts in two days. The law has been on the books for a number of years, but so far no effort to prosecute under it is on record.

GERMANY AND ALLIED CREDITORS NOW IN ACCORD

REPARATIONS PROBLEM NOW IN FAIR WAY OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

BELGIUM IS NOW NEGOTIATING
DIRECTLY WITH BERLIN
OVER MARK CLAIM

Paris, June 4.—(U.P.)—Germany and the allied creditor nations reached a complete accord today on the reparations problem.

The final obstacle which remained in the way of complete agreement was removed when Belgium agreed to settle its mark claim against Germany by direct negotiations with Berlin. Thus the conference of reparations experts was relieved of the burden of including the special clause in the conference report.

All the delegations, including the Belgian, approved the German proposition, made by note yesterday, that the question of restitution to Belgium for the gold francs confiscated by Germany during the years of occupation be settled by a special conference between the two governments involved.

Thereupon the Belgian delegation indicated its willingness to sign the new plan in which Owen D. Young, chairman of the conference, was the master mind.

Germany has agreed to pay, over the next 58 years, a sum which has a present cash value of $36,996,000 marks ($8,812,447,200). With interest included, Germany will actually pay, in yearly installments, a total of $23,105,500,000.

The six creditor nations—France, Belgium, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States—may expect a fixed annual income which will cover their war debts and about half of their reparations claim.

Out of the total which Germany will pay, France will receive more than half, or 19,367,000,000 marks. The annuities under the Young plan, technically start on April 1 last, although actually they will begin next September. The difference is the amount Germany will pay up to Sept. 1 under the final year of the old Dawes' plan.

PEANUT PUSHER HAS BROADWAY OFFER

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 4.—(U.P.)—Bill Williams patiently pushed a peanut up the side of Pike's Peak today and dreamed of the time he could get back to sea level and associate with "Shipwreck" Kelly and the rest of the marathoners in Madison Square Garden in New York.

Bill, a Texan and out of his element in the snow and ice that blanket the peak, says he has an offer to demonstrate his prowess as a propeller of goobers along Broadway if he succeeds in nosing the peanut to the uppermost crag of the peak in the 22 day limit.

"This is funny summer weather," Williams complained as he emerged from his snow covered tent with the first streaks of dawn and started sweeping a path so he could continue the peanut derby.

Com. Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army is Recovering from Injuries

Hartsdale, N. Y., June 4.—(U.P.)—Commander Evangeline Booth has practically recovered from the effects of injuries she sustained in an automobile accident 11 days ago, her physician, Dr. Walter C. Tilden, announced after a visit to her home today.

Parts of 5 Southwestern States Begin to Remedy Untold Damage Caused By Floods

MISSOURI IS STRIVING TO STOP LEEVE BREAKS

GRAN RIVER WASHED OUT PARTS OF ROCK ISLAND AND WA-
BASH RAILROADS

FLOOD CONDITIONS ARE IMPROV-ING IN SOUTHEASTERN
NEBRASKA

Kansas City, June 4.—(U.P.)—Parts of five southwestern states began today to remedy untold damage caused by floods during the last week.

While a bright sun warmed most of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, farmers and workmen in northern Missouri were striving to prevent the break of dikes along the Gran river which is overflowing into bottom lands between Pattonsburg and Brunswick.

The Gran already has washed parts of the Rock Island and Wabash railroads out.

Flood conditions were said to be improved in southeastern Nebraska. However, the Missouri river was reported rising at Falls City and was steadily rising in Kansas City.

Today flood warnings were issued. With damage estimated at from $10,000,000 to $18,000,000, Kansas farmers are hoping for a clear spell in order that they might harvest a part of the heavy crop of grain in the state.

Houston and Beaumont, Texas, reported conditions much improved there today with waters continuing to recede. Oklahoma flood conditions were said to be satisfactory with the Arkansas and Verdigris rivers receding.

7 MINNEAPOLIS MEN IN RACE FOR CONGRESS

Minneapolis, June 4.—(U.P.)—Seven prominent citizens of Minneapolis today had filed for the fifth district congressional seat soon to be vacated by Rep. Walter Newton.

When Ernest Lundeen, one-time candidate for governor, and State Representative S. A. Stockwell entered the race just before the time for filing ended Monday they dispelled reports that the farmer-labor party would not be entered. Both are of the farmer-labor party.

Others who sought Newton's seat were Lieutenant Governor W. I. Nolan, former Postmaster Arch Coleman, W. W. Heffelfinger, the great Yale football star, H. M. Orfield, and Einar Hoidalde. The last is a democrat and the others are republicans.

HOMING PIGEONS IN 1,174 MILE RACE

St. Paul, June 4.—(U.P.)—Thirty San Antonio homing pigeons will be released here late today to wing their way southwest over a 1,174 mile race course. It was expected that the flight would require two days.

VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION, PEOPLE LEAVING HOMES

Naples, June 4.—(U.P.)—Inhabitants of Terzigno today were preparing to evacuate their homes as Vesuvius continued its eruptions. The new eruptions started yesterday when great streams of lava were reported shooting from the crater.

Terzigno, Italy, June 4.—(U.P.)—The seriousness of the eruption of Mount Vesuvius was increasing rapidly at 5 p. m. today. The stream of molten lava descending upon this village had a front of approximately 230 feet and a height of about 33 feet.

The flaming stream, advancing through the Cupaccia valley, divided early in the afternoon into two branches, one moving slowly in the direction of the hamlet of Campitello, which is also a section of Terzigno, and the other flowing down the southwestern slope between Terzigno and Boscicareale.

SWARTHY WOODSMAN CONFESSES SLAYING 6 YEAR OLD CHILD

Ukiah, Calif., June 4.—(U.P.)—Thomas Lethew, 32, swarthy woodsman of the northern California redwood country, confessed today that he attacked and murdered six-year-old Teresa Johnson in the woods near her home the afternoon of May 23.

The confession followed five days of grilling by Sheriff Brynes of Mendocino county and related in detail the crime which so enraged the entire county that the whereabouts of Lethew was kept secret for several days.

Lethew made the confession in the presence of four witnesses. He said he waited in the dense underbrush near the Johnson home, in the vicinity of Mendocino City, and when Teresa returned from school he seized her and dragged her into the bushes.

Choking her into insensibility, Lethew attacked the child and then killed her. He threw the body back into the bushes and returned to his job of cutting wood.

CLAIM 'SCARFACE' AL DENIES SURRENDERING TO PHILADELPHIANS

Philadelphia, June 4.—(U.P.)—The Evening Bulletin today published a reported interview with Alphonse "Scarface" Capone in which it was said the Chicago gangster denied surrendering to the police.

Superintendent of County Prisons William H. Heston told the United Press today that no reporters had interviewed the Chicago gangster and that permission for such an interview would have to be obtained from his office.

PRESIDENT HOOVER IS MINDFUL OF EDITORIAL COMMENT

Washington, June 4.—(U.P.)—President Hoover attempts to gauge public opinion of his various policies by means of editorial comment. Copies of approximately 45 of the larger city dailies from all parts of the country are received daily at the White House, it was learned. Editorial comment and other clippings bearing on administration activities are given to George Akerson, one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries, who in turn gives them to the president.

18 PATIENTS RESCUED FROM CHICAGO FIRE

GENERAL HOSPITAL HAS FIRE
BREAK OUT IN THE BOILER ROOM

SPREADS QUICKLY IN 4-STORY BUILDING, QUENCHED BE-FORE REACHING X-RAY

Chicago, June 4.—(U.P.)—Eighteen patients were rescued from the blazing Chicago general hospital early today when fire broke out in the boiler room and spread quickly in the four-story building.

Firemen, police, physicians and nurses joined in carrying terror-stricken patients from the smoke-filled building. A checkup revealed no one was injured.

The fire was quenched before it reached a quantity of X-ray films on the first floor.

A half dozen acts of heroism occurred while the patients were being carried to safety.

Joseph Richter, a taxi driver, leaped from his cab, rushed to the second floor and carried out three patients before fire apparatus arrived.

All the rescued were taken to other hospitals.

Black Diamonds Have Been Recovered From Plane Wreck in Swamp

New York, June 4.—(U.P.)—The New York Sun said today that black diamonds valued at $25,000 lost in air-mail transit when a plane crashed in a swamp near Moline, Ill., several weeks ago have been recovered and that 29 other black diamonds, valued at $5,000 are still being sought.

Postoffice officials and insurance agency representatives had tons of the swamp mud dug up and sifted to recover the portion of the gems they now have returned to the Hirsch company, the Sun reported.

Master Farmers Picnic at the University Farm

St. Paul, June 4.—(U.P.)—Master farmers and master homemakers from Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas met at the University farm today for their annual picnic. President Lotus D. Coffman of the University delivered an address.

SLAYER-SUICIDE

Ferdinand Preuss, moonshine-maddened marksman, who shot and killed two policemen and a civilian at his home, 2451 W. Thomas St., Chicago, when the officers went there to arrest him for beating his wife.

CHEWING GUM NEARLY CLAIMS LIFE OF MAN

White Plains, N. J., June 4.—(U.P.)—A stick of chewing gum furnished life's greatest thrill to Charles Reichard, 53, and nearly cost his life today.

He hopped from a Harlem railroad train at the West Mount Vernon station to obtain the gum from a slot machine on the platform.

Boarding the moving train again he slipped and was thrown beneath the passenger coach.

The entire train passed over him ripping his clothes to shreds. He was severely lacerated and bruised but still chewing gum when taken to the hospital. He will live.

FAIRBANKS JR., JOAN CRAWFORD ARE MARRIED

DESPITE ASSERTIONS THEY WERE TOO BUSY MAKING
MOTION PICTURES

CEREMONY TOOK PLACE IN REC-
TORY OF CATHOLIC CHURCH
IN NEW YORK

New York, June 4.—(U.P.)—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford have been married despite their assertions that they were much too busy making motion pictures to consider matrimony before 1930.

They did it yesterday afternoon in the rectory of St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church when they were still breathless from issuing denials that they had any intention of marrying while on a brief vacation here from Hollywood studios.

Beth Sully, the first of Douglas Fairbanks' wives, was at the ceremony. The younger Fairbanks, who is 20 years old, said he had received a telegram from his father, in which parental blessings and congratulations were combined.

Miss Crawford to motion picture addicts—looked up from a letter she was writing to her mother and smiled. The letter, she said, began: "Dear mother, it is but an hour since—"

The Fairbanks, who are at the Algonquin hotel, will leave for Hollywood a week from today.

LETTING RADIO RUN IN EARLY HOURS OF THE MORNING

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—(U.P.)—They can't do a thing to you in St. Louis for letting your radio run wide open in the wee hours of the dawn.

The city ordinance governing nuisances says the police can come and get anybody who persistently causes "loud and unusual noises" to be made.

Everybody here agrees a radio can make "loud" noises. But because no court has ever defined radio noises as "unusual" Police Counsel Richard S. Bull has advised complaining apartment dwellers that there isn't a thing the police can do about it.

3 MEN KILLED, 2 INJURED IN DYNAMITE BLAST

New Durham, N. J., June 4.—(U.P.)—Three men were killed and two others injured today in an explosion of dynamite in the stone quarry of the Belmont-Gurnee Stone company in the Grenton section of North Bergen, Hudson county. The dead are:

J. Palmisano, F. Palmisano, his brother, and John Cincatti.

Bus Skids Into Ditch and Three People Killed

Batavia, O., June 4.—(U.P.)—Three persons were killed and nine others were injured last night when a Cincinnati-Columbus bus skidded into a ditch and overturned after locking wheels with an auto, seven miles from here.

The dead are Edward C. Ireton and wife of Marathon, O., and a woman, tentatively identified as Mrs. Lucy B. Schoyer of Hillsboro, Ohio.

HAS TEMPORARY DELAY ON THE FARM AGREEMENT

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE
SPEEDS UP WORK ON THE
TARIFF MEASURE

RECESS MAY RUN FROM ABOUT
JUNE 15 TO ABOUT
AUGUST 15

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 4.—Congressional plans were revised considerably today in view of the temporary delay on the farm agreement and the decision of the senate finance committee to speed up work on the tariff.

The new plan calls for a two months' summer recess instead of three, the recess to begin about June 15 and end about August 15 when the senate will return to sit out the summer in a warm tariff debate. If possible, the leaders intend to get an agreement to send the tariff bill to the White House for signature not later than November 1.

The farm agreement is now due Thursday, although new disputes over minor features of the bill may delay it beyond that time. Conference representatives of the senate and house are arguing now about the stabilization feature and will not reach the Smoot debenture provision before tomorrow.

There is yet some difference of opinion regarding what the senate will do on debenture. Not a republican vote has been changed since the scheme was adopted by that body, but reports are current that three or four democrats are ready to switch.

This would enable the legislation to get through to the White House without the debenture feature. In at least one instance these reports were found to be false. But administration forces say they will have the votes when the time comes.

Open tariff hearings will be begun by sub-committees of the senate finance committee a week from today and will be ended arbitrarily on July 10. The committee then will go into executive session and Chairman Smoot says it will have the bill ready for senate consideration August 1.

The unusual plans to hurry the effective date of farm legislation have the sanction of President Hoover who has been concerned about the decline in the markets.

Wheat was down last Saturday to 97 cents as compared with last year's average of $1.47. Corn, rye, barley, oats and cotton quotations also were off. Rallies were noted in the markets Monday when the United Press told of preparations of the administration to meet the situation.

In furtherance of these plans the department of agriculture is reported to be ready with a recommendation to the budget bureau, asking $200,000,000 for purchase of necessary farm surpluses, much of which will be available for wheat, center of the bear attack.

A resolution then probably will be offered in the house to appropriate this amount and there is a possibility the board may begin work to ease the market situation within a month. Objection to the plan is expected to be encountered in congress.

The farm conferees joined in the movement, after yesterday's delay in their meetings. They agreed to use the senate insurance provision and the house provision on clearing houses. The senate agreed not to allocate the $50,000,000 fund of the bill for different purposes but to leave it in a lump sum as provided by the house.

Agreements upon these issues left only the dispute over the language in the stabilization corporations provision, and the Smoot debenture yet to be finished. There is a chance these may be completed tonight, but if not they are virtually certain to be concluded tomorrow.

The night session makes it possible that final congressional action on the legislation may be taken before the end of the week. The debenture plan is, of course, marked for elimination.

CHEWING GUM NEARLY CLAIMS LIFE OF MAN

White Plains, N. J., June 4.—(U.P.)—A stick of chewing gum furnished life's greatest thrill to Charles Reichard, 53, and nearly cost his life today.

He hopped from a Harlem railroad train at the West Mount Vernon station to obtain the gum from a slot machine on the platform.

Boarding the moving train again he slipped and was thrown beneath the passenger coach.

The entire train passed over him ripping his clothes to shreds. He was severely lacerated and bruised but still chewing gum when taken to the hospital. He will live.

CEREMONY TOOK PLACE IN REC-
TORY OF CATHOLIC CHURCH
IN NEW YORK

New York, June 4.—(U.P.)—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford have been married despite their assertions that they were much too busy making motion pictures to consider matrimony before 1930.

They did it yesterday afternoon in the rectory of St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church when they were still breathless from issuing denials that they had any intention of marrying while on a brief vacation here from Hollywood studios.

Beth Sully, the first of Douglas Fairbanks' wives, was at the ceremony. The younger Fairbanks, who is 20 years old, said he had received a telegram from his father, in which parental blessings and congratulations were combined.

Miss Crawford—she will remain Miss Crawford to motion picture addicts—looked up from a letter she was writing to her mother and smiled. The letter, she said, began: "Dear mother, it is but an hour since—"

The Fairbanks, who are at the Algonquin hotel, will leave for Hollywood a week from today.

LETTING RADIO RUN IN EARLY HOURS OF THE MORNING

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—(U.P.)—They can't do a thing to you in St. Louis for letting your radio run wide open in the wee hours of the dawn.

The city ordinance governing nuisances says the police can come and get anybody who persistently causes "loud and unusual noises" to be made.

Everybody here agrees a radio can make "loud" noises. But because no court has ever defined radio noises as "unusual" Police Counsel Richard S. Bull has advised complaining apartment dwellers that there isn't a thing the police can do about it.

3 MEN KILLED, 2 INJURED IN DYNAMITE BLAST

New Durham, N. J., June 4.—(U.P.)—Three men were killed and two others injured today in an explosion of dynamite in the stone quarry of the Belmont-Gurnee Stone company in the Grenton section of North Bergen, Hudson county. The dead are: J. Palmisano, F. Palmisano, his brother, and John Cincatti.

The dead are Edward C. Ireton and wife of Marathon, O., and a woman, tentatively identified as Mrs. Lucy B. Schoyer of Hillsboro, Ohio.

HAS TEMPORARY DELAY ON THE FARM AGREEMENT

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE
SPEEDS UP WORK ON THE
TARIFF MEASURE

RECESS MAY RUN FROM ABOUT
JUNE 15 TO ABOUT
AUGUST 15

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 4.—Congressional plans were revised considerably today in view of the temporary delay on the farm agreement and the decision of the senate finance committee to speed up work on the tariff.

The new plan calls for a two months' summer recess instead of three, the recess to begin about June 15 and end about August 15 when the senate will return to sit out the summer in a warm tariff debate. If possible, the leaders intend to get an agreement to send the tariff bill to the White House for signature not later than November 1.

The farm agreement is now due Thursday, although new disputes over minor features of the bill may delay it beyond that time. Conferees representing the senate and house are arguing now about the stabilization feature and will not reach the Smoot debenture provision before tomorrow.

There is yet some difference of opinion regarding what the senate will do on debenture. Not a republican vote has been changed since the scheme was adopted by that body, but reports are current that three or four democrats are ready to switch.

This would enable the legislation to get through to the White House without the debenture feature. In at least one instance these reports were found to be false. But administration forces say they will have the votes when the time comes.

Open tariff hearings will be begun by sub-committees of the senate finance committee a week from today and will be ended arbitrarily on July 10. The committee then will go into executive session and Chairman Smoot says it will have the bill ready for senate consideration August 1.

The unusual plans to hurry the effective date of farm legislation have the sanction of President Hoover who has been concerned about the decline in the markets.

Wheat was down last Saturday to 97 cents as compared with last year's average of $1.47. Corn, rye, barley, oats and cotton quotations also were off. Rallies were noted in the markets Monday when the United Press told of preparations of the administration to meet the situation.

In furtherance of these plans the department of agriculture is reported to be ready with a recommendation to the budget bureau, asking $200,000,000 for purchase of necessary farm surpluses, much of which will be available for wheat, center of the bear attack.

A resolution then probably will be offered in the house to appropriate this amount and there is a possibility the board may begin work to ease the market situation within a month. Objection to the plan is expected to be encountered in congress.

The farm conferees joined in the movement, after yesterday's delay in their meetings. They agreed to use the senate insurance provision and the house provision on clearing houses. The senate agreed not to allocate the $50,000,000 fund of the bill for different purposes but to leave it in a lump sum as provided by the house.

Agreements upon these issues left only the dispute over the language in the stabilization corporations provision, and the Smoot debenture yet to be finished. There is a chance these may be completed tonight, but if not they are virtually certain to be concluded tomorrow.

The night session makes it possible that final congressional action on the legislation may be taken before the end of the week. The debenture plan is, of course, marked for elimination.

Luncheon Tendered at Ransford as Farewell to Long Resident Leaving for Bemidji

MRS. GEMMELL, HOSTESS

Present Were Those Who Had Been Associated With Mrs. Warner in Community Activities

The newly furnished dining room at the Ransford made an attractive setting for the luncheon tendered yesterday to Mrs. George H. Warner upon the occasion of her leaving Brainerd for her new home in Bemidji.

Pink roses and lavender sweet peas decorated the tables which were arranged in an open square. There were 35 guests present, friends of long standing who mostly had been associated with Mrs. Warner in her various activities in the community.

Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, the hostess, presided and after the repast, introduced the speakers. She said that those present only represented in part the hosts of friends whom the honor guest was leaving behind her. Mrs. Henry I. Cohen read a quotation from the Sanskrit which stressed the present as the only reality, and these words formed the key-note of what followed.

Mrs. J. A. Thabes briefly reviewed the work of the Childrens Hour, that pre-war organization centered at the library, thus reviving old memories among those present. She told of Mrs. Warner's helpfulness there, and then of her activities in the Red Cross and closed by reading most expressively that poem, "A Friend or Two."

With apologies to Longfellow, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, in the meter and manner of Hiawatha traced very cleverly the coming of Mr. and Mrs. Warner from their home on Lake Calumet to Crow Wing county, whence they now journey to Bemidji. Frequent laughter mingled with a near approach to tears. Mrs. Cobb told of Mrs. Warner's successful leadership among the women of the Brainerd Country club. This was also made as humorous as it was impressive.

Mrs. A. C. Weber told of how the guest of honor would be missed in church circles where her executive ability and accomplishments have been greatly appreciated.

Mrs. C. L. Burnett with a few impressive words preceded her reading of two poems of Edgar A. Guest—Just Folks and Friends. These were a fitting close to the words of esteem and love which had been previously spoken and Mrs. Warner responded fittingly and briefly.

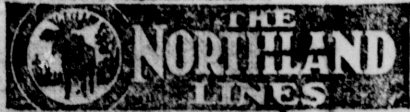

The guests lingered for some time and were cheered by the thought that Mrs. Warner was only going so short a distance and would be able to visit them frequently.

Humorist Won Fame

David Ross Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby) was an American humorist and satirist who was born in 1833 and died in 1888. He began his "Nasby" letters in the Findlay Jeffersonian in 1860 and continued them throughout the Civil war. They exercised much influence in molding popular opinion, upholding as they did the policy of the Lincoln administration. In later years the satire of the letters was aimed at President Johnson.

SOUTH AMERICA WAKING UP

WILL IRWIN, writing in the Nation's Business, says that South America is waking up. He continues:

Whether we like it or not, our thoughts and deeds must turn to South America in the next twenty years as never before in our history. As one of the reporters who accompanied Mr. Hoover on his good will tour I got, everywhere in this slumberous continent, a sense of a giant awakening, of a forward thrust beginning.

South America's delayed development I attribute to certain social and political anomalies and the physical difficulties of the country. The social and political anomalies are being squashed flat under economic pressure. The geographical difficulties had to await this era.

Not until the post-war epoch did the world have the technical skill, the advanced machinery and the loose, venturesome capital to solve this problem. It is, generally speaking, an engineering job.

Now I do not wish to let the eagle scream. Some nations are good at some things and some at others. It just happens that we are best of all at rough, ground-breaking engineering. We learned how to do that when we broke and tamed our continent. We manufacture, on terms beyond competition, the machinery for such jobs. Finally we are under the necessity—to a degree almost embarrassing—of exporting capital. There is little or no surplus capital in South America. The sinews of war for the inevitable development of this continent will come mostly from north of the Rio Grande. The future of North American enterprise seems gorgeously bright when South America begins, on a modern plan and a modern scale, to develop her resources.

ANOTHER argument for a new high school as well as a new theater is the fact that the opera house stage has grown too small to comfortably hold our high school graduating classes. The classes grow larger every year.

It's a good idea to have a team of our youngest baseball players in the league. It brings in new blood, new ideas, new fans and stimulates the whole pastime.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR LADIES BAND ARRIVE

Thirty-Two Piece Organization Now Outfitted in Red and White Satin Uniforms

MAKE ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE

Band is Now Ready to Compete in State Band Contest at St. Paul Two Weeks Hence

The beautiful new uniforms for the Brainerd Ladies Band have arrived at last after several disappointing delays. However, the ladies were more than compensated for their disappointments in the thrill they received when they first viewed the new creations. Their winter's efforts in raising the money necessary to produce these attractive outfits have culminated in designing a uniform which is not only highly attractive but is unique in that it may be reversed, thus creating two different uniforms. They are manufactured of heavy satin, the one uniform being entirely white with red braid on the blouse. By reversing the skirts the suits may be changed to a red and white outfit. Thus the band may use one uniform on parade and at an evening concert present an entirely different combination. The uniform itself is patterned on the naval officer's style, and the caps are made to match, white satin with red braid and black visor. White stockings and handsome red pumps complete the beautiful effect. Several other improvements will also be noted in the band's appearance.

A large banner of the same materials and colors has been ordered and is expected to arrive soon. Over $1,200 have been expended in producing these beautiful creations, and it has taken untiring efforts on the part of the membership during the past winter to finance the project. The band now feels that it is in a position more than ever to advertise Brainerd in a most gratifying way wherever it may appear in the future. Several engagements have already been booked by the organization.

The band has been selected to compete in the state band festival and contest at St. Paul on June 21, 22 and 23. All expenses, with the exception of transportation, will be paid by those sponsoring the contest. The ladies are giving a big dance Thursday evening of this week to finance their transportation costs. Tickets are now on sale and are being sold rapidly. It is expected that the band will be entered in Class C. Forty bands will be in attendance, of which the Crosby Ore Diggers will be one, probably competing in Class B, or the semi-professional class.

The Crosby band, under Professor Knuppel, and the Brainerd Ladies Band, under Mrs. Ziebell, are making special preparations for the contest, and will go far toward upholding the musical reputation of this part of the state, though due to the fact that they are entered in different classes, they will not compete against each other.

SOUTH AMERICA WAKING UP

WILL IRWIN, writing in the Nation's Business, says that South America is waking up. He continues:

Whether we like it or not, our thoughts and deeds must turn to South America in the next twenty years as never before in our history. As one of the reporters who accompanied Mr. Hoover on his good will tour I got, everywhere in this slumberous continent, a sense of a giant awakening, of a forward thrust beginning.

South America's delayed development I attribute to certain social and political anomalies and the physical difficulties of the country. The social and political anomalies are being squashed flat under economic pressure. The geographical difficulties had to await this era.

Not until the post-war epoch did the world have the technical skill, the advanced machinery and the loose, venturesome capital to solve this problem. It is, generally speaking, an engineering job.

Now I do not wish to let the eagle scream. Some nations are good at some things and some at others. It just happens that we are best of all at rough, ground-breaking engineering. We learned how to do that when we broke and tamed our continent. We manufacture, on terms beyond competition, the machinery for such jobs. Finally we are under the necessity—to a degree almost embarrassing—of exporting capital. There is little or no surplus capital in South America. The sinews of war for the inevitable development of this continent will come mostly from north of the Rio Grande. The future of North American enterprise seems gorgeously bright when South America begins, on a modern plan and a modern scale, to develop her resources.

ANOTHER argument for a new high school as well as a new theater is the fact that the opera house stage has grown too small to comfortably hold our high school graduating classes. The classes grow larger every year.

It's a good idea to have a team of our youngest baseball players in the league. It brings in new blood, new ideas, new fans and stimulates the whole pastime.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR LADIES BAND ARRIVE

Thirty-Two Piece Organization Now Outfitted in Red and White Satin Uniforms

MAKE ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE

Band is Now Ready to Compete in State Band Contest at St. Paul Two Weeks Hence

The beautiful new uniforms for the Brainerd Ladies Band have arrived at last after several disappointing delays. However, the ladies were more than compensated for their disappointments in the thrill they received when they first viewed the new creations. Their winter's efforts in raising the money necessary to produce these attractive outfits have culminated in designing a uniform which is not only highly attractive but is unique in that it may be reversed, thus creating two different uniforms. They are manufactured of heavy satin, the one uniform being entirely white with red braid on the blouse. By reversing the skirts the suits may be changed to a red and white outfit. Thus the band may use one uniform on parade and at an evening concert present an entirely different combination. The uniform itself is patterned on the naval officer's style, and the caps are made to match, white satin with red braid and black visor. White stock ings and handsome red pumps complete the beautiful effect. Several other improvements will also be noted in the band's appearance.

A large banner of the same materials and colors has been ordered and is expected to arrive soon. Over $1,200 have been expended in producing these beautiful creations, and it has taken untiring efforts on the part of the membership during the past winter to finance the project. The band now feels that it is in a position more than ever to advertise Brainerd in a most gratifying way wherever it may appear in the future. Several engagements have already been booked by the organization.

The band has been selected to compete in the state band festival and contest at St. Paul on June 21, 22 and 23. All expenses, with the exception of transportation, will be paid by those sponsoring the contest. The ladies are giving a big dance Thursday evening of this week to finance their transportation costs. Tickets are now on sale and are being sold rapidly. It is expected that the band will be entered in Class C. Forty bands will be in attendance, of which the Crosby Ore Diggers will be one, probably competing in Class B, or the semi-professional class.

The Crosby band, under Professor Knuppel, and the Brainerd Ladies Band, under Mrs. Ziebell, are making special preparations for the contest, and will go far toward upholding the musical reputation of this part of the state, though due to the fact that they are entered in different classes, they will not compete against each other.

ORDERS 9 YEAR LAD HELD TO JUVENILE COURT FOR KILLING

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—(UP)—After deliberating for almost an hour, a coroner's jury, composed of six prominent Springfield business men, today ordered nine-year-old James Harrison held to the Sangamon county juvenile court for the killing of Norman Rees Conwill, 16.

Conwill was wounded fatally last Wednesday evening while the two boys were tussling over a gun.

The ancient Greeks gave asbestos its name, the word meaning "unburnable." This mineral owes its value to the fact that its fibers can be separated and woven into a fabric that is indestructible by fire and acid proof. Charlemagne was said to have had a tablecloth of asbestos which was cleansed by being thrown into the fire.

CLASS OF '29 HEARS REV. OSGOOD IN COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS FRIDAY

SPAKER LIKENS GRADUATES TO ST. GEORGE FIGHTING DRAGONS

The class of 1929 is no more. Its days as a class organization are over. Friday the curtain of the Park Theatre descended upon the Seniors of this year who had occupied the stage and had basked in the limelight before proud parents and interested friends. Decorated with lilacs and flags, the old theatre platform proved to be a fitting place for senior girls in white ensembles and senior boys in vari-colored suits after a program of music and addresses by Dr. Phillips Osgood, Supt. Cobb and Miss Tornstrom, and when the diplomas had been presented to the graduates—111 strong—and the benediction pronounced, the class was free to make its way in the world.

An instrumental trio consisting of Rolland Jenkins, Jerome Behne, saxophonists, and Victor Bourgeois, violinist, accompanied by Miss Rickard opened the program which was announced by Supt. W. C. Cobb. This trio contributed several numbers to the program later. After the invocation by Rev. Mr. Brandon the high school glee club sang two selections.

Dr. Osgood Delivers Address
The speaker of the evening, Dr. Phillips Osgood, rector of the St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Minneapolis, gave an address which is outstanding among the usual commencement speeches. Free from trite banalities and stereotyped common places, this talk no doubt had a salutatory effect upon all of Dr. Osgood's listeners.

The speaker had the happy faculty of dramatizing his thoughts and gave to the class and the audience a vivid picture of the battles in olden days between the dragons and man, and showed St. George to the rescue in shining armor and glittering sword, while the maiden lay swooning within grasp of the dragon. Today youth is up in arms to conquer the evils that are rampant in the world, and it is a definite characteristic of militant youth that it does not compromise with these ends nor accept them as might the older people. Youth faces issues squarely and wants honesty and sincerity.

Dr. Osgood spoke of the definite training necessary for St. Georges, and stated that one of the highest requisites was responsibility which he characterized as response-ability, which is indicative of the trained worker with the right personality. Creative personality is necessary for the salvation of the world, and this personality should have been developed in twelve years of education, for the word means educating or drawing out and what is latent in ability should be by now a well directed force.

He illustrated his points with two clever stories; the first dealt with the inscription on the tombstone of a sheriff who tried to enforce the law in the days of the Wild West. On this stone was engraved, "He seen his duty and done it noble; angels couldn't a did no more;" the second spoke of the negro preacher who illustrated the fact that "Salvation am free," as is the water, but the piping costs. He abjured the class to "do their nobles" and to be ready and willing and able to do the piping to bring to the world the needed courage and conquest of wrong.

Turning to the class, Mr. Osgood exhorted them to go on with their good work, and to be equipped with sword and armor and the feeling of responsibility for the conquest of evil in the world. "St. George to the Rescue."

Miss Tornstrom Presents Honors
The principal of the high school, Miss Mary Tornstrom, happily informed Dr. Osgood and the audience that this class would not swoon on the rock as the maiden did, but would have risen and cheered St. George on to victory over the dragon or else assisted him in his valiant work. Miss Tornstrom made it clear that the class of '29 has conquered many a dragon. This class, said the principal, knows itself well and had made the best of every situation, regardless of lack of facilities.

The principal announced the names of those who have contributed to the welfare of the high school as well as their own in matters scholastic and extra-curricular. Among those given were:

Valdettorian—Evodia Carlson.
Salutatorians—William McClennahan, Lois White.

B. H. S. Turns Out Four Three-Year Graduates

Four of those graduates leaving old B. H. S. have gone through high school in three years instead of the usual four. They are Helen Bakkila, Verona Trask, Esther Mass, and Caroline Schrader. We don't envy the short-lived happiness of these people but we certainly do admire the ambition and initiative that must have been such a help to them in their struggle. They have sacrificed many good times and taken part in very few extra-curricular activities so that they might be able to give more time to their studies. If the same will-power which has helped these students in this work sticks with them through future years, we have positively no doubt about their success.

'29 YEAR BOOK IS HUGE SUCCESS

Under the able direction of Wm. McClennahan, managing editor, the Brainonian of '29 is one of the finest year books ever issued by any senior class. With all the Brainonian staff working cheerfully; with Carl Zapffe as art editor who drew all the excellent ink sketches in the annual; with Donald Geist and Guy Hawkins, and Allen Johnson as efficient business managers; and with Miss Tornstrom and Miss True as supervisors of the publication, all students in Brainerd high school have reason to be proud of this yearly achievement.

The book, which is dedicated to the American Indian, has an Indian theme throughout. Tepees, tomahawks, papooses and canoes profusely illustrate the publication. A scenic section of unusual merit is found as one opens the book. Then in turn come photographs of the faculty, the seniors, the school organizations and the athletic teams, with the appropriate write-ups for each. The feature section is unusually good with a series of special drawings by Carl Zapffe and squibs by the staff writers.

As is the usual situation, all copies of the book have been taken by eager purchasers who will treasure this Brainonian as they have all others before this one.

In concluding her remarks, Miss Tornstrom presented the class to the citizens of Brainerd with the hope that its members will prove worthy of all the efforts which have been made for them.

Mr. John Cummings of the Elks Lodge briefly reviewed the purposes and work of that organization and presented a medal to Evodia Carlson for excellence in scholarship.

Supt. W. C. Cobb Addresses Grads
Afterwards Supt. W. C. Cobb addressed the audience on recent tendencies in education; namely, physical training, junior high schools, raising qualifications of teachers and kindergartens. He urged the public to foster extra-curricular activities as well as athletics. Then, turning to the Seniors, he reminded them of their obligations to their parents, to their home town, to their local high school and to themselves.

Mr. Robert Crust, president of the Board of Education, presented diplomas to the graduates who then sang their class song and received the benediction.

Class of '29, we the Brainonian staff, salute you and wish you well wherever you may go.

MALC ELLISON DELIVERS ADDRESS AT EVERGREEN

Malcolm Ellison, president of the senior class, gave the Gettysburg address at Evergreen cemetery on Memorial Day. This is a custom that has been carried out during the past years and usually given by the Senior class president. On account of the wind and confusion it was very hard to speak but overcoming these difficulties he delivered the address very effectively. We all regret very much to see Malcolm leave but hope next year to have a president who will be as worthy to give this immortal address.

PROS AND CONS

We really intended to "razz" the Seniors in this column but we refrain. They looked so nice, so dear, so solemn, so dignified, so sad Friday night that we cast aside all our cleverness and will offer sweet nothing.

Now there is a graduate
Feeling rather blue,
Sitting on a curbstone,
Wondering what to do.

"Oh," says a passer-by
"Why not be gay?"
"Can't," says the graduate,
"No school today."

Speaking of annuals, isn't this one a good one?

We are so relieved that we know who the most popular girl, the best athletes, the best all-around boy and girl are that we sigh with relief. Furthermore, we'll sleep again now that we have discovered the class gossip and the biggest bluffer.

Miss Mathis—"Do you know Poe's 'Raven'?"
George Mac—"What's he mad about?"

The old court house will never be the same without Carl's stentorian tones hurling themselves through the atmosphere, nor can it quite measure up to its former status without Evodia and Mildred pounding the Underwood. Class of '29 will now rise and sing "The Old

YE EDITOR

For those who are leaving forever our dear old high school to seek their fortunes in the strange and unfamiliar world to but dream of happy days gone by, cramped in their temporary quarters which they have had to call their school, this issue is especially prepared. To them our high was not merely Court House, Jail or Lock Up, but their school, their home, their life, out of which has gone the glow of their Alma Mater with memories of trials and tribulations, of success and sorrows of battles fought and won.

And now their vacation is over and they are to leave it all so soon to meet and conquer the rivalry and strife of the world. For the Senior class graduation is indeed a commencement. Twelve years of sheltered life and kindly care are at an end for most of them. Into the world they must go to battle for existence, to make their own way and achieve what success they may.

And what will the old school be like now that they are gone. One cannot live with them year in and year out and not miss them when they are gone. Of course there will always be many more to take their places but soon we will find ourselves longing for their smiling faces once again, for their friendly guidance, for their helpful influence.

Soon we are to have a beautiful new high school which they can never appreciate. Like Tantalus of old the graduates gaze upon the building that they may never inhabit except as guests. Not for them the roomy corridors of the stately pile they see going up on the site of their beloved old "Vintage of '84;" not for them the gym with all its conveniences and its comforts; not for them the auditorium with all panoply of pageant and drama; not for them the endless dramas that will be enacted in the building they see slowly assuming the proportions of beauty and convenience.

With pride they may point to their achievements under handicaps such as no preceding class has been asked to face. With pride they pass on to their successors the torch of progress and ask that they hold it high and add to the beauty and glory of their Alma Mater.

GLEE CLUB STRIKES 3 MEMBERS FROM ROLL

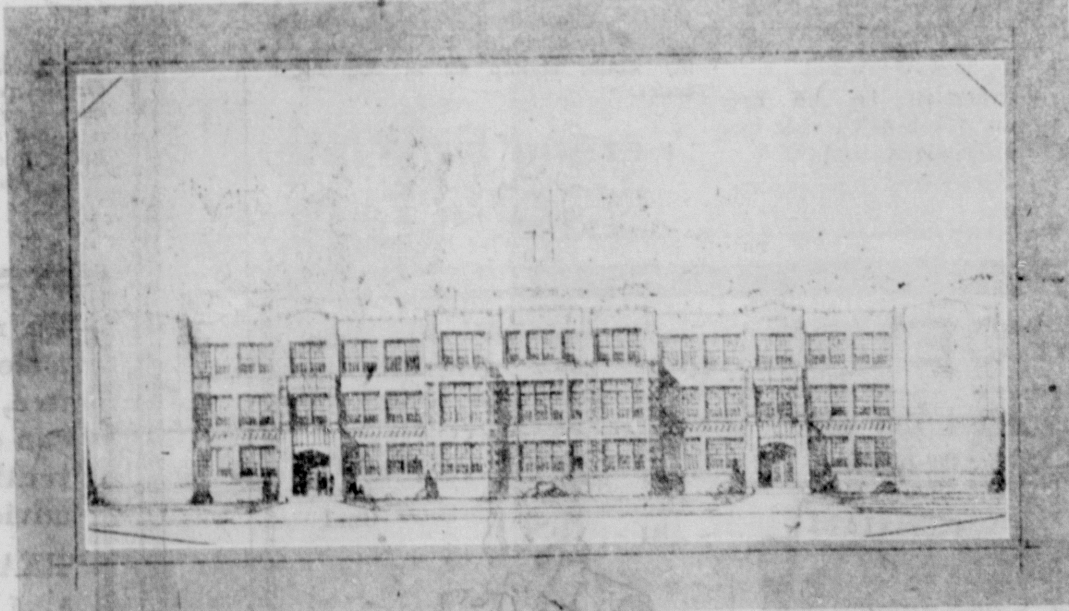

The Glee club will suffer with the loss of three of its prominent members: Carl Zapffe, Billy McClennahan and Monroe Kelly who graduated. Carl Zapffe, one of the big blustering basses who also participated in the Brainonian vaudeville as Intelelector in the Minstrel Show. Monroe Kelly, a second tenor also did good work. And last but not least Billy McClennahan who during last year has played the piano bass taking part as first tenor and member of the quartet.

Thoughts on the Seniors

Ellen Berglund who flashed her eye to popularity... Evodia Carlson who always gets drawn on the food committee and always makes a good cook... Male Ellison whose eyes are almost as bright as Ellen's... Edith Heald who never makes a show but always makes the "A" Honor Roll... Allen Johnson who constantly wears that blasé expression... Billy McClennahan who collected... the McCaffrey boys who are twins but don't look it... Orris Larson and his perpetual smile... Helene Marie Stadlbauer who does everything and does them all well... Carl Zapffe who loves Magdeline Komintus Schnapsnoggie... Milly Prentice who is always as cool and fresh as Billy... Belvie Olson who was noted as the best girl dancer and who, they say, certainly deserved it... Frankie Wise who earned eleven athletic letters... Edythe Titus and her ever-present wad of gum... Guy Hawkins who is usually quiet but not always... and last but certainly not least... Lois White who has worked like a Trojan in every school activity... and is Salutatorian besides.

ORCHESTRA TO LOSE THREE BY GRADUATION

The orchestra will lose only Dorothy Schrader and Howard Gile trombonists and Victor Bourgeois first violin.

Dorothy and Howard were beyond doubt the best trombonists in the orchestra and it will be exceedingly difficult to replace them in the wind section.

Victor Bourgeois, who attained fame through his dexterity in handling the violin, leaves the orchestra after four years of faithful service. Vic had a leading part in every program at which the orchestra performed and his loss will be greatly felt by that organization.

Notices to Parents

Any parents interested in the results of the college aptitude tests may get the information from Mr. Cobb's office. The university authorities have proved rather conclusively that these tests indicate very closely the type of work that will be done in college, and urge that no students go to school who do not rank rather high, and that none go whose ranking is below 35. As records must be sent to the colleges, students are urged to get the proper blanks from the office as soon as possible.

Song of a Student

(Tune, "Just Before the Battle Mother")

Just before examinations
I am taking a review,
And a wishing I had studied,
So I'd manage to get through.

Schoolmates all are busy cramming,
Working now with all their might,
And praying for some easy questions
They can answer halfway right.

I've attended all the parties,
That are given thick and fast,
Stayed out late and danced the
Whoopie

Till the study time was past.

Every night I was so busy,
Time for books could not be spared,
Then the term examinations,
Find me wholly unprepared.

Hark, I hear the last bell sounding,
"Tis the signal, "GET TO WORK!"
I hope that there will be no questions
On the lessons I did shirk.

I promise next term I will study,
For exemptions I will strive,
And every night take home my
school books.

If my grade is seventy-five,
Farewell classmates, I may never
These examinations pass,
But I hope you'll not forget me.

If I fall behind the class,
P. S. My grade was 57.

Donna and Mardella Cunningham.

GRADUATION CLAIMS NINE MEMBERS FROM WEEKLY AND ANNUAL STAFFS

Sixteen Members Leave Ranks of French Club

A number of the most prominent members of the French club are leaving this year, much to the regret of those remaining. The three officers of the club were seniors, and will therefore depart, as well as thirteen other very helpful French students. They are Donald Geist who was president of the club, voted best all around boy by his class, Edith Heald, secretary and school poetess; Helen Bane, treasurer, one of the best girl athletes; Emil Hendrickson, that bashful, studious boy; Victor Bourgeois, the famous fiddler; Carl Zapffe, the orator and artist; Malcolm Ellison, the most popular boy in the senior class; Monroe Kelly, business manager of the Brainonian; Evodia Carlson, the valedictorian; Katherine Hagberg, one of the best natured people in school; Tolsty Tyankkenen, a student well liked by everybody; Katherine Albright, the "Jazz-baby"; Lena Schone, an honor graduate; Jewel James, a very studious girl, and Helen Bakkila, Verona Trask and Esther Mass, three-year graduates.

PRINCIPAL GIVES ADVICE TO GRADS

The advice given you Friday night by your commencement speaker was excellent. Wherever you go or what ever you do in the future, be sure that dragons are lurking to test your mettle, to prove whether you are St. Georges ready to be "up and at them" with your shining sword, or futile kings supinely allowing the dragons to play havoc with your kingdom.

The dragons are of many kinds, waiting to seize upon your weakness and blow hot clouds of fire to keep you from realizing your ambitions. You must be always on guard, for they lose no opportunity; when you feel most secure they pounce unexpectedly, and only instant alertness and a ready weapon will save you.

The hard thing about fighting dragons is that so often they are not the spectacular type whose conquest will bring glory and credit and public renown when you finally conquer them and stand triumphantly with your foot upon the vanquished foe, but minor dragons who constantly annoy and are always returning to catch you unaware.

The faculty hope that all these years of training have equipped you to battle whatever dragons you encounter and may you meet them joyfully and battle them successfully and find life a joyous challenge to your abilities.

Latin Club Loses Four Members by Graduation

This year's Vergil class is losing four of its most popular students and members to the outside world because of those "Commencement Bells."

There was Bill McClennahan, who has the honor of being Salutatorian, brightest boy and the distinction of being one of the two people to receive the Jester Citizenship award. Besides those scholastic awards, Bill also put out the '29 Brainonian annual, one of the best published so far. He also was the leading man in the class play, the "Youngest" and certainly played the part to perfection. If Bill works as hard in the future as he has in the past, his success is assured.

Katherine Hagberg was an honor student who has long been noticed for her good nature. Edythe Titus, our cheer leader and class flirt and also a member of the Brainonian Staff, whose gum stock seems to be a perpetuity, and Helen Bane, also an honor student and a girl very popular with all forms of athletics, were the other Seniors who assisted materially in all activities of the Latin club and in Vergil class.

TALENTED STUDENTS CLOSE CAREERS AS HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISTS

With the close of the school year of '29, nine members of the Brainonian staff closed their career as journalists for Brainerd High School. William McClennahan as editor of the annual heads the list. The bigger and better Brainonian of '29 very clearly shows the ability of this young journalist, for an enterprise comprising over a thousand dollars is not a small undertaking. Donald Geist, Guy Hawkins and Allen Johnson, business managers, handled the financial side to the annuals last year and this, taking care of the advertising. The work done by these boys was most satisfactory. Carl Zapffe, a new member of the staff this year, did some very remarkable work, handling everything along the art lines. His designs and drawings are of the best and Carl deserves much credit for making the annual a success. Edith Heald, Edythe Titus and Lois White are three of the best and most willing workers that have contributed to the success of the Brainonian. These girls were very conscientious in their efforts and always submitted their copy on time. Without this trio the Brainonian would have had a great struggle to continue. Last but not least come the typists, Mildred Prentice and Evodia Carlson. Although engaged in extra-curricular activities, these girls labored often as late as five o'clock to finish the copy for the paper. The staff will be fortunate indeed to secure again, two such competent typists.

The remaining members of the staff hope that they will be able to carry on the good work instituted by former Brainonianites, and wish the greatest success to the departing seniors.

DRAGONS CONQUERED BY SENIORS THIS YEAR

Several girls were entirely "on their own" and have secured their education at the expense of much labor and privation.

One girl has kept a family going, seen that it was fed and clothed and the younger members in school, while she has always been up in her work in school, sometimes on the honor roll, and has made her high school in three and a half years.

One girl has walked eight miles in and eight miles out daily, sometimes not fortunate enough to get a ride, but always she has been here.

One boy has been unable to come in to school until this year, and so has studied by himself, and with the help of the country school teachers has prepared himself for the state examinations and qualified himself for the senior year and graduation.

Boys have spent many hours working summers and after school to get money so that they might be ready for school and its duties.

Many other have struggled with hard subjects and conquered them, and by that training have made themselves St. Georges and ready for life.

The Seniors are especially grateful to the Juniors and Miss O'Brien, Junior class adviser, for their efforts to make the Park theatre presentable for the commencement exercises. To find room for all chairs on the stage for the class was a stupendous task in itself and it was well done. CLASS OF '29 HEARS REV. OSGOOD IN COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS FRIDAY

The class of 1929 is no more. Its days as a class organization are over. Friday the curtain of the Park Theatre descended upon the Seniors of this year who had occupied the stage and had basked in the limelight before proud parents and interested friends. Decorated with lilacs and flags, the old theatre platform proved to be a fitting place for senior girls in white ensembles and senior boys in vari-colored suits after a program of music and addresses by Dr. Phillips Osgood, Supt. Cobb and Miss Tornstrom, and when the diplomas had been presented to the graduates—111 strong—and the benediction pronounced, the class was free to make its way in the world.

An instrumental trio consisting of Rolland Jenkins, Jerome Behme, saxophonists, and Victor Bourgeois, violinist, accompanied by Miss Rickard opened the program which was announced by Supt. W. C. Cobb. This trio contributed several numbers to the program later. After the invocation by Rev. Mr. Brandon the high school glee club sang two selections.

Dr. Osgood Delivers Address
The speaker of the evening, Dr. Phillips Osgood, rector of the St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Minneapolis, gave an address which is outstanding among the usual commencement speeches. Free from trite banalities and stereotyped commonplaces, this talk no doubt had a salutary effect upon all of Dr. Osgood's listeners.

The speaker had the happy faculty of dramatizing his thoughts and gave to the class and the audience a vivid picture of the battles in olden days between the dragons and man, and showed St. George to the rescue in shining armor and glittering sword, while the maiden lay swooning within grasp of the dragon. Today youth is up in arms to conquer the evils that are rampant in the world, and it is a definite characteristic of militant youth that it does not compromise with these ends nor accept them as might the older people. Youth faces issues squarely and wants honesty and sincerity.

Dr. Osgood spoke of the definite training necessary for St. Georges, and stated that one of the highest requisites was responsibility which he characterized as response-ability, which is indicative of the trained worker with the right personality. Creative personality is necessary for the salvation of the world, and this personality should have been developed in twelve years of education, for the word means educating or drawing out and what is latent in ability should be by now a well directed force.

He illustrated his points with two clever stories; the first dealt with the inscription on the tombstone of a sheriff who tried to enforce the law in the days of the Wild West. On this stone was engraved, "He seen his duty and done it noble; angels couldn't a did no more;" the second spoke of the negro preacher who illustrated the fact that "Salvation am free," as is the water, but the piping costs. He abjured the class to "do their noblest" and to be ready and willing and able to do the piping to bring to the world the needed courage and conquest of wrong.

Turning to the class, Mr. Osgood exhorted them to go on with their good work, and to be equipped with sword and armor and the feeling of responsibility for the conquest of evil in the world. "St. George to the Rescue."

Miss Tornstrom Presents Honors
The principal of the high school, Miss Mary Tornstrom, happily informed Dr. Osgood and the audience that this class would not swoon on the rock as the maiden did, but would have risen and cheered St. George on to victory over the dragon or else assisted him in his valiant work. Miss Tornstrom made it clear that the class of '29 has conquered many a dragon. This class, said the principal, knows itself well and had made the best of every situation, regardless of lack of facilities.

The principal announced the names of those who have contributed to the welfare of the high school as well as their own in matters scholastic and extra-curricular. Among those given were:

Valedictorian—Evodia Carlson.
Salutatorians—William McClennahan, Lois White.
Honor List
Edith Heald.
Hazel Fallquist.
Katherine Hagberg.

B. H. S. Turns Out Four Three-Year Graduates

Four of those graduates leaving old B. H. S. have gone through high school in three years instead of the usual four. They are Helen Bakkila, Verona Trask, Esther Mass, and Caroline Schrader. We don't envy the short-lived happiness of these people but we certainly do admire the ambition and initiative that must have been such a help to them in their struggle. They have sacrificed many good times and taken part in very few extra-curricular activities so that they might be able to give more time to their studies. If the same will-power which has helped these students in this work sticks with them through future years, we have positively no doubt about their success.

SONG OF THE FRESHMAN

I wish I were a Senior
I'd wear a Senior ring
I wish I were a Senior
I'd never do a thing.

'29 YEAR BOOK IS HUGE SUCCESS

Under the able direction of Wm. McClennahan, managing editor, the Brainonian of '29 is one of the finest year books ever issued by any senior class. With all the Brainonian staff working cheerfully; with Carl Zapffe as art editor who drew all the excellent ink sketches in the annual; with Donald Geist and Guy Hawkins, and Allen Johnson as efficient business managers; and with Miss Tornstrom and Miss True as supervisors of the publication, all students in Brainerd high school have reason to be proud of this yearly achievement.

The book, which is dedicated to the American Indian, has an Indian theme throughout. Tepees, tomahawks, paposes and canoes profusely illustrate the publication. A scenic section of unusual merit is found as one opens the book. Then in turn come photographs of the faculty, the seniors, the school organizations and the athletic teams, with the appropriate write-ups for each. The feature section is unusually good with a series of special drawings by Carl Zapffe and squibs by the staff writers.

As is the usual situation, all copies of the book have been taken by eager purchasers who will treasure this Brainonian as they have all others before this one.

In concluding her remarks, Miss Tornstrom presented the class to the citizens of Brainerd with the hope that its members will prove worthy of all the efforts which have been made for them.

Mr. John Cummings of the Elks Lodge briefly reviewed the purposes and work of that organization and presented a medal to Evodia Carlson for excellence in scholarship.

Supt. W. C. Cobb Addresses Grads
Afterwards, Supt. W. C. Cobb addressed the audience on recent tendencies in education; namely, physical training, junior high schools, raising qualifications of teachers and kindergartens. He urged the public to foster extra-curricular activities as well as athletics. Then, turning to the Seniors, he reminded them of their obligations to their parents, to their home town, to their local high school and to themselves.

Mr. Robert Crust, president of the Board of Education, presented diplomas to the graduates who then sang their class song and received the benediction.

Class of '29, we the Brainonian staff, salute you and wish you well wherever you may go.

MALC ELLISON DELIVERS ADDRESS AT EVERGREEN

Malcolm Ellison, president of the senior class, gave the Gettysburg address at Evergreen cemetery on Memorial Day. This is a custom that has been carried out during the past years and usually given by the Senior class president. On account of the wind and confusion it was very hard to speak but overcoming these difficulties he delivered the address very effectively. We all regret very much to see Malcolm leave but hope next year to have a president who will be as worthy to give this immortal address.

PROS AND CONS

We really intended to "razz" the Seniors in this column but we refrain. They looked so nice, so dear, so solemn, so dignified, so sad Friday night that we cast aside all our cleverness and will offer sweet nothing.

Now there is a graduate
Feeling rather blue,
Sitting on a curbstone,
Wondering what to do.

"Oh," says a passer-by
"Why not be gay?"
"Can't," says the graduate,
"No school today."

Speaking of annuals, isn't this one a good one?

We are so relieved that we know who the most popular girl, the best athletes, the best all-around boy and girl are that we sigh with relief. Furthermore, we'll sleep again now that we have discovered the class gossip and the biggest bluffer.

Miss Mathis—"Do you know Poe's 'Raven'?"

The old court house will never be the same without Carl's stentorian tones hurling themselves through the atmosphere, nor can it quite measure up to its former status without Evodia and Mildred pounding the Underwood. Class of '29 will now rise and sing "The Old

YE EDITOR

For those who are leaving forever our dear old high school to seek their fortunes in the strange and unfamiliar world to but dream of happy days gone by, cramped in their temporary quarters which they have had to call their school, this issue is especially prepared. To them our high was not merely Court House, Gym Hall or Lock Up, but their school, their home, their life, out of which has gone a part of their Alma Mater with memories of trials and tribulations, of success and sorrows of battles fought and won.

And now their vacation is over and they are to leave it all so soon to meet and conquer the rivalry and strife of the world. For the Senior class graduation is indeed a commencement. Twelve years of sheltered life and kindly care are at an end for most of them. Into the world they must go to battle for existence, to make their own way and achieve what success they may.

And what will the old school be like now that they are gone. One cannot live with them year in and year out and not miss them when they are gone. Of course there will always be many more to take their places but soon we will find ourselves longing for their smiling faces once again, for their friendly guidance, for their helpful influence.

Soon we are to have a beautiful new high school which they can never appreciate. Like Tantalus of old the graduates gaze upon the building that they may never inhabit except as guests. Not for them the roomy corridors of the stately pile they see going up on the site of their beloved old "vintage of '84," not for them the gym with all its conveniences and its comforts; not for them the auditorium with all its panoply of pageant and drama; not for them the endless dramas that will be enacted in the building they see slowly assuming the proportions of beauty and convenience.

With pride they may point to their achievements under handicaps such as no preceding class has been asked to face. With pride they pass on to their successors the torch of progress and ask that they hold it high and add to the beauty and glory of their Alma Mater.

GLEE CLUB STRIKES 3 MEMBERS FROM ROLL

The Glee club will suffer with the loss of three of its prominent members: Carl Zapffe, Billy McClennahan and Monroe Kelly who graduated.

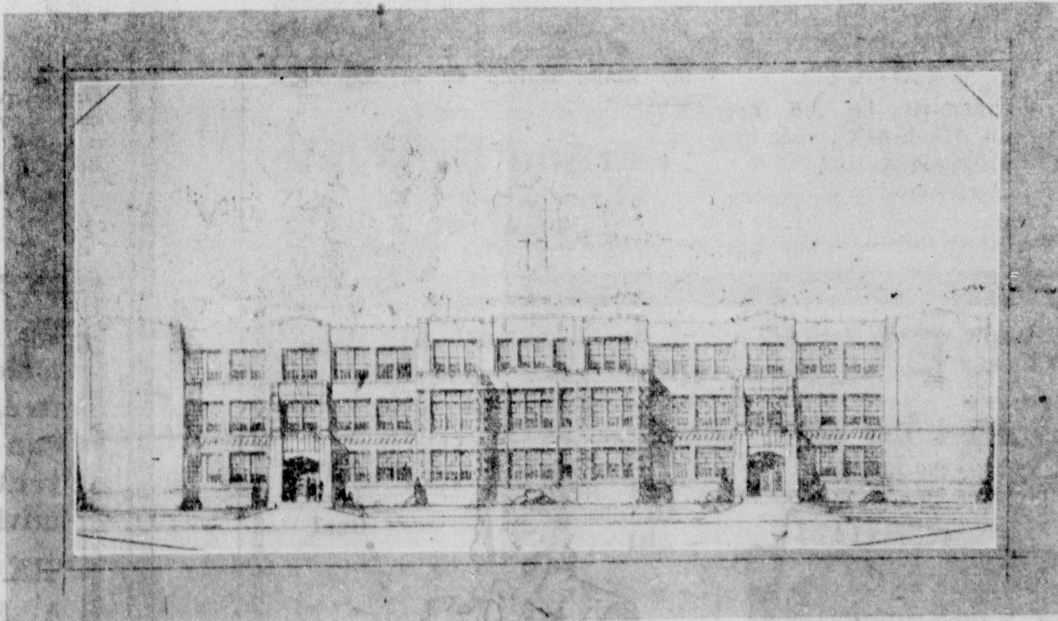

Carl Zapffe, one of the big blustering basses who also participated in the Brainonian vaudeville as Interlocutor in the Minstrel Show.
Monroe Kelly, a second tenor also did good work. And last but not least Billy McClennahan who during last year has played the piano basses taking part as first tenor and member of the quartet.

Thoughts on the Seniors

Ellen Berglund who flashed her eyes to popularity . . . Evodia Carlson who always gets drawn on the food committee and always makes a good cook . . . Malc Ellison whose eyes are almost as bright as Ellen's . . . Edith Heald who never makes a show but always makes the "A" Honor Roll . . . Allen Johnson who constantly wears that blasé expression . . . Billy McClennahan who constantly talks about being "hot" and bothered but is always calm and collected . . . the McCaffrey boys who are twins but don't look it . . . Orris Larson and his perpetual smile . . . Helene Marie Stadlbauer who does everything and does them all well . . . Carl Zapffe who loves Magdalene Komintus Schnapsnoggle . . . Milly Prentice who is always as cool and fresh as Billy . . . Belvie Olson who was noted as the best girl dancer and who, they say, certainly deserved it . . . Frankie Wise who earned eleven athletic letters . . . Edythe Titus and her ever-present wad of gum . . . Guy Hawkins who is usually quiet but not always . . . and last but certainly not least . . . Lois White who has worked like a Trojan in every school activity . . . and is Salutatorian besides.

ALUMNI

Emil Meifert of the class of '25 visited school Monday. He has been for several years with the Westinghouse Electric Company in Pittsburgh, Pa., in the motor engineering department.

We hope they sing this better than they sang their class song.

We venture a few predictions in spite of the class prophecy in the Brainonian:

Don Geist—heavyweight champion prize fighter.
Ellen Berglund—housewife (immediately if not sooner).
Wm. McClennahan—second Paderewski.

Katherine Hagberg—cabaret dancer.

Ruth Kunitz—ditto.

Malcolm Ellison—radio announcer.

If she is a "goody goody"—transformer.

If she is a naughty girl—converter.

If she's hungry—feeder.

If she's too fat—reducer.

If she fumes and sputters—insulator.

When you get tired of her—electrocutor.

Class of '29—Hail and farewell! —The Connoisseur.

Notices to Students

Report cards and poetry books not called for may be had in Mr. Cobb's office.

ORCHESTRA TO LOSE THREE BY GRADUATION

The orchestra will lose only Dorothy Schrader and Howard Gile first trombonists and Victor Bourgeois first violin.

Dorothy and Howard were beyond doubt the best trombonists in the orchestra and it will be exceedingly difficult to replace them in the wind section.

Victor Bourgeois, who attained fame through his dexterity in handling the violin, leaves the orchestra after four years of faithful service. Vic had a leading part in every program at which the orchestra performed and his loss will be greatly felt by that organization.

Notices to Parents

Any parents interested in the results of the college aptitude tests may get the information from Mr. Cobb's office. The university authorities have proved rather conclusively that these tests indicate very closely the type of work that will be done in college, and urge that no students go to school who do not rank rather high, and that none go whose ranking is below 35. As records must be sent to the colleges, students are urged to get the proper blanks from the office as soon as possible.

Song of a Student

(Tune, "Just Before the Battle Mother")

Just before examinations
I am taking a review,
And a wishing I had studied,
So I'd manage to get through.

Schoolmates all are busy cramming,
Working now with all their might,
And praying for some easy questions
They can answer halfway right.

I've attended all the parties,
That are given thick and fast,
Stayed out late and danced the
Whoopie
Till the study time was past.

Every night I was so busy,
Time for books could not be spared,
Then the term examinations,
Find me wholly unprepared.

Hark, I hear the last bell sounding,
'Tis the signal, "GET TO WORK!"
I hope that there will be no questions
On the lessons I did shirk.

I promise next term I will study,
For exemptions I will strive,
And every night take home my
school books,
If my grade is seventy-five.

Farewell classmates, I may never
These examinations pass,
But I hope you'll not forget me,
If I fall behind the class.

P. S. My grade was 57.
Donna and Mardella Cunningham.

GRADUATION CLAIMS NINE MEMBERS FROM WEEKLY AND ANNUAL STAFFS

Sixteen Members Leave Ranks of French Club

A number of the most prominent members of the French club are leaving this year, much to the regret of those remaining. The three officers of the club were seniors, and will therefore depart, as well as thirteen other very helpful French students. They are Donald Geist who was president of the club, voted best all around boy by his class, Edith Heald, secretary and school poetess; Helen Bane, treasurer, one of the best girl athletes; Emil Hendrickson, that bashful, studious boy; Victor Bourgeois, the famous fiddler; Carl Zapffe, the orator and artist; Malcolm Ellison, the most popular boy in the senior class; Monroe Kelly, business manager of the Brainonian; Evodia Carlson, the valedictorian; Katherine Hagberg, one of the best natured people in school; Toily Tynkkanen, a student well-liked by everybody; Katherine Allbright, the "jazz-baby"; Lena Schone, an honor graduate; Jewel James, a very studious girl, and Helen Bakkila, Verona Trask and Esther Mass, three-year graduates.

PRINCIPAL GIVES ADVICE TO GRADS

The advice given you Friday night by your commencement speaker was excellent. Wherever you go or whatever you do in the future, be sure that dragons are lurking to test your mettle, to prove whether you are St. Georges ready to be "up and at them" with your shining sword, or futile kings supinely allowing the dragons to play havoc with your kingdom.

The dragons are of many kinds, waiting to seize upon your weakness and blow hot clouds of fire to keep you from realizing your ambitions. You must be always on guard, for they lose no opportunity; when you feel most secure they pounce unexpectedly, and only instant alertness and a ready weapon will save you.

The hard thing about fighting dragons is that so often they are not the spectacular type whose conquest will bring glory and credit and public renown when you finally conquer them and stand triumphantly with your foot upon the vanquished foe, but minor dragons who constantly annoy and are always returning to catch you unaware.

The faculty hope that all these years of training have equipped you to battle whatever dragons you encounter and may you meet them joyfully and battle them successfully and find life a joyous challenge to your abilities.

MARY F. TORNSTROM.

Latin Club Loses Four Members by Graduation

This year's Vergil class is losing four of its most popular students and members to the outside world because of those "Commencement Bells."

There was Bill McClennahan, who has the honor of being Salutatorian, brightest boy and the distinction of being one of the two people to receive the Jostep Citizenship award. Besides these scholastic awards, Bill also put out the '29 Brainonian annual, one of the best published so far. He also was the leading man in the class play, the "Youngest" and certainly played the part to perfection. If Bill works as hard in the future as he has in the past, his success is assured.

Katherine Hagberg was an honor student who has long been noticed for her good nature. Edythe Titus, our cheer leader and class flirt and also a member of the Brainonian Staff, whose gum stock seems to be a perpetuity, and Helen Bane, also an honor student and a girl very popular with all forms of athletics, were the other Seniors who assisted materially in all activities of the Latin club and in Vergil class.

TALENTED STUDENTS CLOSE CAREERS AS HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISTS

With the close of the school year of '29, nine members of the Brainonian staff closed their career as journalists for Brainerd High School. William McClennahan as editor of the annual heads the list. The bigger and better Brainonian of '29 very clearly shows the ability of this young journalist, for an enterprise comprising over a thousand dollars is not a small undertaking. Donald Geist, Guy Hawkins and Allen Johnson, business managers, handled the financial side for the annuals last year and this, taking care of the advertising. The work done by these boys was most satisfactory. Carl Zapffe, a new member of the staff this year, did some very remarkable work, handling everything along the art lines. His designs and drawings are of the best and Carl deserves much credit for making the annual a success. Edith Heald, Edythe Titus and Lois White are three of the best and most willing workers that have contributed to the success of the Brainonian. These girls were very conscientious in their efforts and always submitted their copy on time. Without this trio the Brainonian would have had a great struggle to continue. Last but not least come the typists, Mildred Prentice and Evodia Carlson. Although engaged in extra-curricular activities, these girls labored often as late as five o'clock to finish the copy for the paper. The staff will be fortunate indeed to secure again, two such competent typists.

The remaining members of the staff hope that they will be able to carry on the good work instituted by former Brainonians, and wish the greatest success to the departing seniors.

DRAGONS CONQUERED BY SENIORS THIS YEAR

Several girls were entirely "on their own" and have secured their education at the expense of much labor and privation.

One girl has kept a family going, seen that it was fed and clothed and the younger members in school, while she has always been up in her work in school, sometimes on the honor roll, and has made her high school in three and a half years.

One girl has walked eight miles in and eight miles out daily, sometimes not fortunate enough to get a ride, but always she has been here.

One boy has been unable to come in to school until this year, and so has studied by himself, and with the help of the country school teachers has prepared himself for the state examinations and qualified himself for the senior year and graduation.

Boys have spent many hours working summers and after school to get money so that they might be ready for school and its duties.

Many other have struggled with hard subjects and conquered them, and by that training have made themselves St. Georges and ready for life.

The Seniors are especially grateful to the Juniors and Miss O'Brien, the Junior class adviser, for their efforts to make the Park theatre presentable for the commencement exercises. To find room for all chairs on the stage for the class was a stupendous task in itself and it was well done. Lilacs were especially appropriate flowers for the occasion since the orchid of the blossom and the green of the foliage provided the class of '29 colors—those of orchid and green.

IOWA U IS ANXIOUS TO BE REINSTATED IN ATHLETICS

FOURTH TEAM GIVEN PLACE IN CITY BALL LEAGUE

DELEGATION CONFERS WITH BIG TEN BODY

IOWA WAS SUSPENDED FOR AL- LEGED SUBSIDIZING OF ATHLETES

WHAT OUTCOME OF MEETING WILL BE IS CON- JECTURABLE

Chicago, June 4.—(UP)—Two Iowa professors today were to appear before a sub-committee of the Big Ten faculty athletic committee, with a plea that the University of Iowa be reinstated as a member in good standing in the western conference.

Iowa was suspended by the athletic committee a little more than a week ago for violation of the rule which prohibits subsidizing of athletics.

The Hawkeyes have a petition ready which asks for reinstatement and they were to present it today to the sub-committee which is composed of Professor Goodenough, Illinois; James Page, Minnesota; and P. E. French, Ohio State.

What the outcome of the meeting will be is conjecturable. The sub-committee may do any one of three things:

1. Immediately reinstate the Hawkeyes.
2. Make the period between now and January 1, 1930 (when the suspension was to have become effective) a probationary one and allow the faculty committee to again take a vote in connection with Iowa.
3. Deny the Iowa plea and reaffirm the faculty committee verdict.

The delegates representing Iowa are Edward Lauer, newly appointed physical education director, and Louis Pelzer, the Iowa member of the conference athletic committee.

Rumor has it that Iowa was "ousted" because athletics at the school had gotten out of the hands of the faculty and in some measure were being controlled by alumni. The charge also was made that a "slush fund" was being used to help athletics.

Yesterday's Hero—Lefty Grove, Philadelphia hurler, who allowed the hard hitting Detroit Tigers only four hits in 13 innings and became the first pitcher to best George Uhle, Tiger mound ace, in 10 games this year. Uhle lost his own game by forcing a man over the plate in the 13th, walking Bishop with the bases full, for the run that spelled a 3 to 2 win for the A's.

Ed Wells of the New York Yankees was victor in another pitching duel, holding the Chicago White Sox to two hits and winning, 1 to 0. Ted Lyons, losing pitcher, allowed only six hits.

St. Louis scored four runs in the first at Washington to pave the way for a 6 to 4 victory over the Senators. The Senators out-hit the Browns, 10 to 9, but were unable to make their blows as effective.

The Chicago Cubs dropped their third straight to the New York Giants, 8 to 1, at Chicago. Carl Hubbell allowed the Cubs only eight scattered hits.

St. Louis out-hit Brooklyn, at St. Louis, for a 9 to 8 victory. Dudley started for the Robins but Ballou replaced him and was charged with the defeat. Sylvester Johnson started for the Cardinals and was given credit for the victory.

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Philadelphia Phillies with ease, 14 to 2, behind the pitching of Burleigh Grimes, who won his 9th straight. Grimes held the Phils to six hits.

Cincinnati pounded Cantwell and Greenfield of the Boston pitching staff for 14 hits at Cincinnati and smothered the Braves 12 to 3. Six runs for the Reds virtually decided the issue in the first inning.

NEW TEAM GIVES PROMISE TO MAKE LIVELY RIVALRY

FIRST GAME OF UNNAMED TEAM AGAINST CITY LEAGUE TEAM TO BE PLAYED THURSDAY

FOSTER AND JIM GABIOU GIVE A GOOD EXHIBITION OF TWIR- LING ABILITY

A team of young promising ball players will make up the fourth team in the Brainerd city league. The team will make its debut in the league Thursday evening at Rosko's field against Northeast.

Candidates for the team went through their paces last evening in a scrub game with a pickup team from Northeast, winning by the count of 3 to 2. Two pitchers, Foster and Jim Gabiou, were each given a tryout on the mound for the new entries. The two young heavies made an impressive showing, their conditioning standing out prominently.

The new team includes the following players: Foster, Gabiou, Ed. Heikkinen, Otto Heikkinen, Grenier, Rofidal, Bill Heikkinen, Paine, Becker and Schrader.

New York, June 4.—(UP)—Babe Ruth will be out of the New York Yankees' lineup for the next several days, possibly a week, because of a heavy cold which showed indications of developing into influenza.

The Babe was taken out of the game in the ninth inning last Saturday, when the Yankees were playing the Chicago White Sox, and has not played since.

Yesterday he reported at Yankee stadium but was ordered to St. Vincent hospital for an examination, which was said to have disclosed considerable congestion in the Babe's chest. Ruth was permitted to go to his home but was told to remain in bed.

Samuel Dewey Hyrd is playing right field for the Yanks during Ruth's absence.

IOWA U IS ANXIOUS TO BE REINSTATED IN ATHLETICS

DELEGATION CONFERS WITH BIG TEN BODY

FOURTH TEAM GIVEN PLACE IN CITY BALL LEAGUE

IOWA WAS SUSPENDED FOR ALLEGED SUBSIDIZING OF ATHLETES

WHAT OUTCOME OF MEETING WILL BE IS CONJECTURABLE

Chicago, June 4.—(UP)—Two Iowa professors today were to appear before a sub-committee of the Big Ten faculty athletic committee, with a plea that the University of Iowa be reinstated as a member in good standing in the western conference.

Iowa was suspended by the athletic committee a little more than a week ago for violation of the rule which prohibits subsidizing of athletics.

The Hawkeyes have a petition ready which asks for reinstatement and they were to present it today to the sub-committee which is composed of Professor Goodenough, Illinois; James Page, Minnesota; and P. E. French, Ohio State.

What the outcome of the meeting will be is conjecturable. The sub-committee may do any one of three things:

1. Immediately reinstate the Hawkeyes.
2. Make the period between now and January 1, 1930 (when the suspension was to have become effective) a probationary one and allow the faculty committee to again take a vote in connection with Iowa.
3. Deny the Iowa plea and reaffirm the faculty committee verdict.

The delegates representing Iowa are Edward Lauer, newly appointed physical education director, and Louis Pelzer, the Iowa member of the conference athletic committee.

Rumor has it that Iowa was "ousted" because athletics at the school had gotten out of the hands of the faculty and in some measure were being controlled by alumni. The charge also was made that a "slush fund" was being used to help athletics.

Yesterday's Hero—Lefty Grove, Philadelphia hurler, who allowed the hard hitting Detroit Tigers only four hits in 13 innings and became the first pitcher to best George Uhle, Tiger mound ace, in 10 games this year. Uhle lost his own game by forcing a man over the plate in the 13th, walking Bishop with the bases full, for the run that spelled a 3 to 2 win for the A's.

Ed Wells of the New York Yankees was victor in another pitching duel, holding the Chicago White Sox to two hits and winning, 1 to 0. Ted Lyons, losing pitcher, allowed only six hits.

St. Louis scored four runs in the first at Washington to pave the way for a 6 to 4 victory over the Senators. The Senators out-hit the Browns, 10 to 9, but were unable to make their blows as effective.

The Chicago Cubs dropped their third straight to the New York Giants, 8 to 1, at Chicago. Carl Hubbell allowed the Cubs only eight scattered hits.

St. Louis out-hit Brooklyn, at St. Louis, for a 9 to 8 victory. Dudley started for the Robins but Ballou replaced him and was charged with the defeat. Sylvester Johnson started for the Cardinals and was given credit for the victory.

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Philadelphia Phillies with ease, 14 to 2, behind the pitching of Burleigh Grimes, who won his 9th straight. Grimes held the Phils to six hits.

Cincinnati pounded Cantwell and Greenfield of the Boston pitching staff for 14 hits at Cincinnati and smothered the Braves 12 to 3. Six runs for the Reds virtually decided the issue in the first inning.

NEW TEAM GIVES PROMISE TO MAKE LIVELY RIVALRY

FIRST GAME OF UNNAMED TEAM AGAINST CITY LEAGUE TEAM TO BE PLAYED THURSDAY

FOSTER AND JIM GABIOU GIVE A GOOD EXHIBITION OF TWIRLING ABILITY

A team of young promising ball players will make up the fourth team in the Brainerd city league. The team will make its debut in the league Thursday evening at Rosko's field against Northeast.

Candidates for the team went through their paces last evening in a scrub game with a pickup team from Northeast, winning by the count of 3 to 2. Two pitchers, Foster and Jim Gabiou, were each given a tryout on the mound for the new entries. The two young heavies made an impressive showing, their conditioning standing out prominently.

The new team includes the following players: Foster, Gabiou, Ed. Heikkinen, Otto Heikkinen, Grenier, Rofidal, Bill Heikkinen, Paine, Becker and Schrader.

NEW DOG ORDINANCE GIVEN TO COUNCIL

Dogs Not Permitted to Run at Large
From April 15 to
September 1

OWNERS HELD RESPONSIBLE

City to Purchase a Two Ton Truck
Chassis and Cab, Bids to
be Advertised

The city council took first steps last evening to put a stop to the running at large of all dogs in the city of Brainerd during the summer months.

Initial action which will undoubtedly close with the passage of the ordinance came when the council on motion of Aldermen W. J. Hall and V. E. Quannstrom ordered that the ordinance prepared by City Attorney D. H. Fullerton be given its first reading.

The ordinance, an amendment to the one now in use governing the conduct and licensing of dogs embodies in brief:

That dogs will not be permitted to run at large in the city limits from April 15 to September 1.

That owners will be held responsible for their dogs.

That a pound be established and that a penalty of $3 be imposed on all owners of dogs so impounded for infraction of the ordinance.

That dogs will be sold or destroyed if after five days owners do not claim them.

That for repeated offenses owners will be subject to fines not less than $5 and not more than $10.

City Attorney Fullerton who drafted the ordinance explained that the ordinance would not incur any additional expense to the city in its enforcement. Money taken in through fines etc. will be turned over to the public safety fund.

D. E. Whitney who explained to the members of the council that he did not expect to express his opinion on the dog question stated previous to the order for first reading that dogs had become a menace to the city of Brainerd in the respect that their continual destruction of property tended to discourage Brainerd people in growing flower gardens and otherwise beautifying the city.

"I believe that you will find that the majority of dogs that are causing the trouble are those which are unlicensed. There are several dogs in our neighborhood which are causing trouble. These are not licensed and I doubt if they ever have been licensed. I am a lover of dogs myself. I do not believe in harming dumb animals but I am heartily in accord with the passage of this ordinance which would place the responsibility on the owners. The ordinance will encourage residents to keep their dogs on their own premises," Mr. Whitney said.

"The destruction of chickens, flowers and other property can be traced to unlicensed dogs," Alderman W. J. Hall said. "The man who has a dog takes care of it. Those who have dogs and care for them are in favor of the adoption of such an ordinance."

To Purchase Truck

Recognizing the need for further street equipment the council on motion of Aldermen Hall and Ernest Ritari authorized the city clerk to advertise for bids for the purchase of a two ton truck chassis and cab.

Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, was also instructed to advertise for bids for the depositing of city funds for the ensuing year.

On motion of Aldermen Quannstrom and Ritari, President R. H. Paine was requested to appoint a committee of three to attend the annual meeting of the League of Minnesota Municipalities at Austin on June 12, 13, and 14.

To Employ Policeman

The suggestion made by Mayor Frank E. Little recently that an additional policeman be employed on the city force was acted upon and on motion of Aldermen Quannstrom and Hall the council adopted a resolution that the mayor be empowered to employ an additional policeman.

Members of the council expressed themselves as favoring the employment of an additional policeman to add increased protection to the city.

Alderman V. F. Anderson, chairman of the finance committee explained that finances in the public safety fund were low at the present time and that it would be advisable to transfer funds sufficient to meet the increased expenditure from the general fund.

To Check Up Sidewalks

A resolution adopted on motion of Aldermen Ritari and Hall calls for the employment of a man to make a complete survey of city sidewalks to determine deficiencies in them. Where repairs are needed the resident there will be notified to make the necessary repairs and upon the expiration of 30 days if the walk is not repaired the city will repair the walk and charge the expense to the property owner.

Necessary repairs to the old fire truck were ordered made.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell was instructed to advertise for bids returnable at the next meeting of the council June 17 for the painting of all window frames and outside woodwork at the city and fire halls. The call for bids will specify two coats of paint.

To satisfy the needs of a clock in the city hall the council ordered that a lease be secured from the Western Union for rental of a clock at the cost of $1.50 a month. The clock will be placed in the hallway. It was pointed out that at the present time the city hall did not have a municipally owned clock in the building.

Sam Phillips, 519 Vine street, made application for a line and grade of a sidewalk to be established on Vine street between South 5th and South 6th streets as he contemplates the construction of a sidewalk. City Engineer Campbell was requested to report back to the council at its next meeting with a proposed grade line.

On motion the auto salvage license of Miles Guin was ordered revoked and the balance of the unused portion of the license be refunded.

The request of Roy Wyre that car licenses on two cars be transferred to Mrs. Wyre, his wife was on motion granted.

Application of the Christy O. Brocht Stock Co. for a license to operate a tent show in Brainerd for the week commencing July 29 was on motion approved.

Application of Joseph Gustafson for a license to install a curb pump on Third avenue N. E. was laid on the table pending a report from the fire, light and water committee regarding location of proposed pump relative to distance from a fire hydrant.

Jacobs Brothers of Bird Island, Minn., were successful bidders for sewer contract work. Their bid totaled $2656.80 for 2940 feet of 8 inch vetrifried sewer, average depth 7 1/2 feet at 72 cents a foot and nine manholes at $60 a manhole. The work will be done on I street with branches extending north and south in Blocks No. 20, 21, 22, 27, 28 and 29. Schwartz's addition to the city of Brainerd.

NOTICE BIDS WANTED

Town Board of Smiley will let the following road to the successful bidder on open bids Monday, June 10, 1929: About 1 1/4 miles of road running North and South from Old Grade to Round Lake road. Road to be 33 feet wide, grubbed and graded, some fills and cuts, shallow blade in most places. Bidders meet Town Board at North end of road near Otto Berg's at 10 o'clock Monday, June 10, to look at road. Board reserved right to reject any or all bids.

R. L. PARKS, Town Clerk.

RANGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PLEAS

Prof. Lombardi Conducts Extended
Program Without a
Score

MEMORIZES ALL SELECTIONS

Miss Effie Drexler of Brainerd Plays
With First
Violins

It was to a very enthusiastic audience that the Range Symphony Orchestra played Sunday evening.

The moment Prof. Lombardi took his place it was observed that he had no music rack—that he was conducting without music. And this is his remarkable custom.

Then it was noticed that Miss Effie Drexler, one of Brainerd's prominent musicians, was playing with the violins. Miss Drexler played with this orchestra several years ago, having taught on the Range before accepting a position in the schools of her home town. Professor Lombardi asked her to take her former place with the violins for the evening.

The audience was won over by the opening overture. This indefinable contact between listener and performer is often not established until several numbers have been given and the hearty applause after the first number was an indication of appreciative listening.

Musically interpretation, blend of tone and response to the will of the director were noticeable. Especially pleasing throughout the program were the nuances of tone drawn out by the conductor.

The two heavier numbers, "Cleopatra" and the finale of Tchaikovsky's "Symphony Pathétique" made a great impression on the audience with their clear enunciation of themes and dramatic portrayals. This was especially true of "Cleopatra" in which the military element produced an agitation of feeling and the lovely queen theme suggested sweet womanly characteristics rather than the ways of the seductive siren.

The last number, The Blue Danube waltz, while given a somewhat different tempo at times, was very beautiful and that number, or possibly the whole program effected a call for more. Professor Lombardi responded with a very spirited and delightful rendition of Haydn's "Gipsy Rondo."

The strings appear as the best section of this orchestra, doing consistently lovely work. This was recognized in their performance with full orchestra where especially in "Cleopatra" and the "Spanish Serenade" the violins in high delicate accompaniment were charming and the cellos very appealing. But best of all was their work shown in a number of pieces for strings only. The hopeless fate of "The Swan" was expressed in limpid tones while the "Gavotte" with pizzicato work was all gracefulness and extreme delicacy. Professor Lombardi graciously added another string number, Beethoven's "Minuet."

The soprano, Miss Carmela Santini added to the charm of her personality and appearance a splendid voice—full, flexible and expressive. Longing, daintiness and passion were all portrayed in her songs, "To a Miniature" and "Il Bacio" being the most popular. The latter with orchestra accompaniment was pretentious and charmingly sung. With apparently no place for a breath, this rapid number as Miss Santini gave it had every appearance of being simple to sing.

Mme. Ada Lombardi as her accompanist and as pianiste with the orchestra had too little opportunity to show her skill at the piano but it is known that she does unusual work along this line. As vocal instructor of Miss Santini she received unqualified praise.

Should this orchestra be able to come to Brainerd during the winter season when such events receive their due consideration, it would be assured of the support and appreciation it deserves.

RANGE CLUBS MEET WEDNESDAY

County Agent E. G. Roth Assists
Mrs. Edna Brown Braamse in Conducting Meetings

All day instructions were given 100 girls of 4-H clubs in the vicinity surrounding Brainerd today at the Chamber of Commerce rooms by Mrs. Edna Brown Braamse, Assistant State Boys and Girls club leader. Topics taken included canning, sewing, break baking, home beautification.

Girls in attendance came from Long Lake, Garrison, Daggett Brook, Maple Grove, St. Mathias, Gilbert, Mission, Jenkins, Center, Lake Edwards, Oak Lawn, and Nokay Lake.

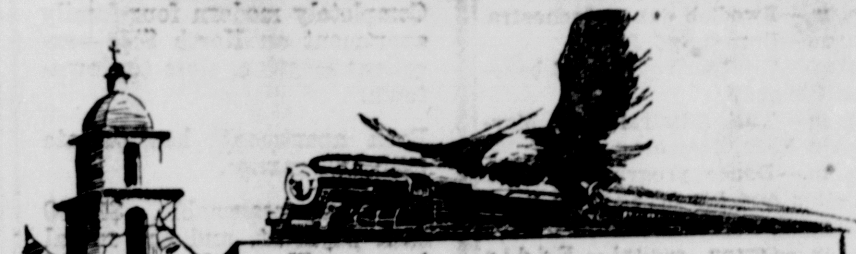

County Agent E. G. Roth assisted Mrs. Braamse in conducting the school.

A similar school will be conducted tomorrow at Crosby for range clubs. Crow Wing county has more than 300 girls in 4-H club work.

CHORAL CLUB TO SING AT WADENA

Brainerd Singers to Take Part in District Choral
Contest

4TH CONTEST ENTERED

Sponsored Each Year by the Federation of Women's Clubs

Wednesday evening of this week the ladies of the Brainerd Choral club go to Wadena to take part for the fourth time in a district choral contest sponsored each year by the Federation of Women's clubs.

Two years ago after winning in the district contest they entered the state event and won the state cup.

Again last year they won in the district but were unable to attend the state convention meeting at Mankato.

So far as they know now, other entrants this year will be groups from Long Prairie, Hackensack and St. Cloud.

Two songs are prescribed by the district chairman of music, every group singing them. The choice of a third is left to each individual group—this being their expression of their ability and taste.

Noticeable characteristics of the Brainerd club are their exquisite blend of tone, their desire to express their director's ideas and their attitude of regarding themselves as part of an instrument upon which she plays.

In the audience at each contest have been people from Brainerd who have given moral support to the singers and made an actual difference in their mental attitude—and in their singing. It is hoped that many will drive over to Wadena Wednesday evening. The Choral club should know that it has the backing of all Brainerd.

The personnel of the club this spring is as follows:
Sopranos—Mesdames Kregelberg, Ray Hall, Moulster, Alderman.
Second sopranos—Mesdames H. L. Paine, Misses Jennie Beck, Alma Brown, Emily Mraz.
Altos—Mesdames Fredstrom, Mahlum, Fox, Miss Dorothy Carmichael.
Director—Miss Effie Drexler.
Accompanist—Mrs. Louis Knudsen.

NEW DOG ORDINANCE GIVEN TO COUNCIL

Dogs Not Permitted to Run at Large
From April 15 to
September 1

OWNERS HELD RESPONSIBLE

City to Purchase a Two Ton Truck
Chassis and Cab, Bids to
be Advertised

The city council took first steps last evening to put a stop to the running at large of all dogs in the city of Brainerd during the summer months.

Initial action which will undoubtedly close with the passage of the ordinance came when the council on motion of Aldermen W. J. Hall and V. E. Quamstrom ordered that the ordinance prepared by City Attorney D. H. Fullerton be given its first reading.

The ordinance, an amendment to the one now in use governing the conduct and licensing of dogs embodies in brief:

That dogs will not be permitted to run at large in the city limits from April 15 to September 1.

That owners will be held responsible for their dogs.

That a pound be established and that a penalty of $3 be imposed on all owners of dogs so impounded for infraction of the ordinance.

That dogs will be sold or destroyed if after five days owners do not claim them.

That for repeated offenses owners will be subject to fines not less than $5 and not more than $10.

City Attorney Fullerton who drafted the ordinance explained that the ordinance would not incur any additional expense to the city in its enforcement. Money taken in through fines etc. will be turned over to the public safety fund.

D. E. Whitney who explained to the members of the council that he did not expect to express his opinion on the dog question stated previously to the order for first reading that dogs had become a menace to the city of Brainerd in the respect that their continual destruction of property tended to discourage Brainerd people in growing flower gardens and otherwise beautifying the city.

"I believe that you will find that the majority of dogs that are causing the trouble are those which are unlicensed. There are several dogs in our neighborhood which are causing trouble. These are not licensed and I doubt if they ever have been licensed. I am a lover of dogs myself. I do not believe in harming dumb animals but I am heartily in accord with the passage of this ordinance which would place the responsibility on the owners. The ordinance will encourage residents to keep their dogs on their own premises," Mr. Whitney said.

"The destruction of chickens, flowers and other property can be traced to unlicensed dogs," Alderman W. J. Hall said. "The man who has a dog takes care of it. Those who have dogs and care for them are in favor of the adoption of such an ordinance."

To Purchase Truck
Recognizing the need for further street equipment the council on motion of Aldermen Hall and Ernest Ritari authorized the city clerk to advertise for bids for the purchase of a two ton truck chassis and cab.

Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, was also instructed to advertise for bids for the depositing of city funds for the ensuing year.

On motion of Aldermen Quamstrom and Ritari, President R. H. Paine was requested to appoint a committee of three to attend the annual meeting of the League of Minnesota Municipalities at Austin on June 12, 13, and 14.

To Employ Policeman
The suggestion made by Mayor Frank E. Little recently that an additional policeman be employed on the city force was acted upon and on motion of Aldermen Quamstrom and Hall the council adopted a resolution that the mayor be empowered to employ an additional policeman.

Members of the council expressed themselves as favoring the employment of an additional policeman to add increased protection to the city. Alderman V. E. Anderson, chairman of the finance committee explained that finances in the public safety fund were low at the present time and that it would be advisable to transfer funds sufficient to meet the increased expenditure from the general fund.

To Check Up Sidewalks

A resolution adopted on motion of Aldermen Ritari and Hall calls for the employment of a man to make a complete survey of city sidewalks to determine deficiencies in them. Where repairs are needed the resident there will be notified to make the necessary repairs and upon the expiration of 30 days if the walk is not repaired the city will repair the walk and charge the expense to the property owner.

Necessary repairs to the old fire truck were ordered made.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell was instructed to advertise for bids returnable at the next meeting of the council June 17 for the painting of all window frames and outside woodwork at the city and fire halls. The call for bids will specify two coats of paint.

To satisfy the needs of a clock in the city hall the council ordered that a lease be secured from the Western Union for rental of a clock at the cost of $1.50 a month. The clock will be placed in the hallway. It was pointed out that at the present time the city hall did not have a municipally owned clock in the building.

Sam Phillips, 510 Vine street, made application for a line and grade of a sidewalk to be established on Vine street between South 5th and South 6th streets as he contemplates the construction of a sidewalk. City Engineer Campbell was requested to report back to the council at its next meeting with a proposed grade line.

On motion the auto salvage license of Miles Guin was ordered revoked and the balance of the unused portion of the license be refunded.

The request of Roy Wyre that car licenses on two cars be transferred to Mrs. Wyre, his wife was on motion granted.

Application of the Christy O. Brecht Stock Co. for a license to operate a tent show in Brainerd for the week commencing July 29 was on motion approved.

Application of Joseph Gustafson for a license to install a curb pump on Third avenue N. E. was laid on the table pending a report from the fire, light and water committee regarding location of proposed pump relative to distance from a fire hydrant.

Jacobs Brothers of Bird Island, Minn., were successful bidders for sewer contract work. Their bid totalled $2656.80 for 2940 feet of 8 inch vetrifed sewer, average depth 7 1/2 feet at 72 cents a foot and nine manholes at $60 a manhole. The work will be done on I street with branches extending north and south in blocks No. 20, 21, 22, 27, 28 and 29. Schwartz's addition to the city of Brainerd.

NOTICE BIDS WANTED

Town Board of Smiley will let the following road to the successful bidder on open bids Monday, June 10, 1929: About 1 1/4 miles of road running North and South from Old Grade to Round Lake road. Road to be 33 feet wide, grubbed and graded, some fills and cuts, shallow blade in some places. Bidders meet Town Board at North end of road near Otto Berg's at 10 o'clock Monday, June 10, to look at road. Board reserved right to reject any or all bids.

RANGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PLEASURES

Prof. Lombardi Conducts Extended
Program Without a
Score

MEMORIZES ALL SELECTIONS

Miss Effie Drexler of Brainerd Plays
With First
Violins

It was to a very enthusiastic audience that the Range Symphony Orchestra played Sunday evening.

The moment Prof. Lombardi took his place it was observed that he had no music rack—that he was conducting without music. And this is his remarkable custom.

Then it was noticed that Miss Effie Drexler, one of Brainerd's prominent musicians, was playing with the violins. Miss Drexler played with this orchestra several years ago, having taught on the Range before accepting a position in the schools of her home town. Professor Lombardi asked her to take her former place with the violins for the evening.

The audience was won over by the opening overture. This indefinable contact between listener and performer is often not established until several numbers have been given and the hearty applause after the first number was an indication of appreciative listening.

Musically interpretation, blend of tone and response to the will of the director were noticeable. Especially pleasing throughout the program were the nuances of tone drawn out by the conductor.

The two heavier numbers, "Cleopatra" and the finale of Tchaikovsky's "Symphony Pathétique" made a great impression on the audience with their clear enunciation of themes and dramatic portrayals. This was especially true of "Cleopatra" in which the military element produced an agitation of feeling and the lovely queen theme suggested sweet womanly characteristics rather than the ways of the seductive siren.

The last number, The Blue Danube waltz, while given a somewhat different tempo at times, was very beautiful and that number, or possibly the whole program effected a call for more. Professor Lombardi responded with a very spirited and delightful rendition of Haydn's "Gipsy Rondo."

The strings appear as the best section of this orchestra, doing consistently lovely work. This was recognized in their performance with full orchestra where especially in "Cleopatra" and the "Spanish Serenade" the violins in high delicate accompaniment were charming and the cellos very appealing. But best of all was their work shown in a number of pieces for strings only. The hopeless fate of "The Swan" was expressed in limpid tones while the "Gavotte" with pizzicato work was all gracefulness and extreme delicacy. Professor Lombardi graciously added another string number, Beethoven's "Minuet."

The soprano, Miss Carmela Santini added to the charm of her personality and appearance a splendid voice—full, flexible and expressive. Longing, daintiness and passion were all portrayed in her songs, "To a Miniature" and "Il Bacio" being the most popular. The latter with orchestra accompaniment was pretentious and charmingly sung. With apparently no place for a breath, this rapid number as Miss Santini gave it had every appearance of being simple to sing.

Mme. Ada Lombardi as her accompanist and as pianiste with the orchestra had too little opportunity to show her skill at the piano but it is known that she does unusual work along this line. As vocal instructor of Miss Santini she received unqualified praise.

Should this orchestra be able to come to Brainerd during the winter season when such events receive their due consideration, it would be assured of the support and appreciation it deserves.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

CRYSTAL grasped his thin arm with fingers that tore through the cloth? About Ralph? Why he's been financing me—he—he—

He grinned as she broke off in confusion. "I know. Say you're kind of unlucky, you and your Ma. Father due to lose his pile, and now the Sugar Papa. I'll begin to think you're a jinx!"

"Let's drown our sorrows," she said, and led him over to the music cabinet, where bottles, not music, were kept.

Over the Chianti she said, her arm around his neck. "By the way, that Cocklebarre is a funny little fellow. Ugly, of course, but interested in art. I'd like to meet him sometime. Avery. You could bring him here."

"You devil!" He kissed her white throat, and the tips of her little pink ears. "You damn gold-digger! All right, my cherie, I'll bring him. Now drink—to us, to—"

But Crystal was on her feet, her finger to her lips. "Shh—quiet! The door bell! It's Ralph..."

He picked up his hat, grinning. "Au revoir, sweet!"

She grabbed at his coat. "You can't go, stupid! He'll see you. Here—hide in the kitchen. No, not the kitchen—my dressing room! Hurry!"

She shut the inner door on him just as Ralph, impatient at the delay, rang again and entered.

"Heavens, you scared me!" Crystal cried, perfectly honest for once in her life.

Then she saw the excitement that he was laboring under, his wild eyes and wet, rumpled hair. "Why, Ralph, what's the matter?"

"Oh nothing—and everything," he answered bitterly, and dropped into the nearest chair. "Just tired, perhaps. I've worked like a dog. I'm fed up with it."

She glanced quickly toward the dressing room door. Suppose Avery got tired waiting? It would be just like him to walk out if he did.

"Let's take a little ride, and you tell me about it," she coaxed. "If I do you good to get out in the fresh air."

He stirred, shifted his feet, as if he were about to comply. "No, I'll be damned if I will. I'd rather stay here. I've been on the go all day."

She thought she heard a faint snicker behind the door... Avery laughing at her defeat. "But I have a headache—I must get out—I'll just die if I don't!"

He caught the high, hysterical note in her voice. "You poor kid," he said quickly. "Here, let me fix you. A good stiff drink is what you need. Sit still, I'll get a glass."

He saw the two that she and Avery had left on the library table. "Use those!" she said quickly. "They're the two we had last night. Just straighten 'em, never mind ice and stuff."

He poured the drinks from his pocket flask, and brought one to her. "Drink it down. Now you'll feel better." He downed his own at a single gulp. "One more, and we'll begin to feel human."

"No more for me, Ralph. You know I never—"

"Nonsense, Crystal, this'll do you good. Or maybe you don't like it straight. I'll go get some water—"

"Oh no, no—I'll take it this way—"

"There! You begin to look better all ready!" He looked at her approvingly, and patted her warm pink cheek. "Why, you're positively burning up!" You've got a fever, Crystal!

"It's nothing—I'm just tired—all worn out—"

"Well, there's a pair of us," He looked into silence again, hands in his pockets, feet spread out, staring straight ahead.

She thought of Avery's gossip. Financial troubles. The business tottering.

"Is there anything wrong at the office?" she whispered.

"Wrong? Nothing else but. Crystal, I can't tell you the whole story, but briefly it's this. I'm so handicapped between that senile old fool Greely, and that cautious young fool Winters—"

"But you could at least get rid of Winters—"

He began to walk up and down. "You don't understand. I can't even do that. I've been carrying him for most of my life, and I'll have to go on. He'd starve if I threw him out. Besides, he works like a dog—I couldn't turn on him—he means well."

He'd give up his life for me, but damn it, he'll drive me to suicide!"

"Couldn't you place him somewhere else?" she suggested practically.

"I wish to heaven I had in the beginning. I may do that yet. He's a worker—just lacks initiative and sense, that's all. I'd be a millionaire now if I didn't have the two of them on me. Now they've yelped so much that the talk is leaking out on the street, and they've about ruined the business. That's what your friends will do to you. Friends! Lord! When it comes to business I'd rather be left to my enemies. I can fight them!"

Crystal was surprised at the thrill that shot through her, as she watched him, the big blond giant, striding up and down, waving his powerful arms, the muscles rippling under his light tweed coat. If only he had money, lots of money; if only... she clenched her shaking hands in her lap.

"No more for me, Ralph. You know I never—"

"Nonsense, Crystal, this'll do you good. Or maybe you don't like it straight. I'll go get some water—"

"Oh no, no—I'll take it this way—"

"Three million dollars, Crystal, do you realize that much money? Three million I'd have made, if they hadn't stopped me last June. Half a million on one deal alone. Do you wonder that I'm crazy? For two pins I'd throw up the whole thing—beat it off—play the market alone. I'd be rich in six months. Rich!"

She wet her dry lips. "But you need capital to start with—lots of money—"

He whipped a wallet from his pocket, showed her a thick wad of bills. "Capital! I've got all I need. I've got enough to travel for a year or two, and get my nerve back, and still come back and put myself on the map. If I stay here in this dead outfit I'll never have more than thirty thousand a year—and what's that? I'm no piker. I don't want to live the simple life—I want—damn it—I want to live—"

He came and took her in his arms. "Excuse the oratory—I blew up—but it makes me so damn mad. If I didn't have you, I don't know what I'd do."

Her white hands played with his hair, she brushed his hot cheek lightly with her lips, the ghost of a kiss. Her heart was beating to Europe, a year of luxury, wealth to come...

"And if I didn't have you—oh, Ralph—if I didn't have you—she was murmuring. If only she could think. Think clearly... plan... make him say it now... and all... she could think of was her mother's maxim, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

Ralph was here—now. He was the bird in the hand—almost Handsome, too... you could fall in love with him... if you could just forget Avery... Avery who was hiding in the dressing room, listening, listening...

"I can't bear it if you go away, and leave me," she whispered so that only Ralph could hear. "I'm a blue, too. And my mother keeps writing, driving me crazy. Oh if only I could get away, if only I had enough money to go to Europe too, if only... oh Ralph, what am I saying to you?"

She could feel his heart thumping against hers, she could see the dawning purpose in his eyes, and she lowered hers to hide the glint of triumph. "Crystal, you mean—"

Crystal, dearest, I'm afraid to say it—you mean you'd give up—your career—"

He was lifting her lovely face in his hands, studying it wonderingly, unable to believe what he had heard.

If only he wouldn't talk so loud! Avery could hear every word. She writhed in fear, trying to hide her genuine confusion, trying to think ("A bird in the hand, a bird in the hand"). Around and around the silly idea flew in her head, the pushing out the sane thoughts, the sound plans, and all the while she was listening, straining her ears for sounds in the dressing room, picturing what would happen if Avery walked out—which would be just like him...

"Career!" she managed to form the words with her parched lips. "What's a career compared to love? Don't you suppose I'd give all that up for—"

"By God, I'll do it! I'll give up this business. I'll pull my money out of it—every cent—and—"

A latch was turning. That scratching sound she had been hearing was getting louder. Ralph was listening, too. She made one last desperate attempt. "You will take me, Ralph—you will, won't you? Tell me—tell me!"

The arm that had held her so tenderly tightened into a hand of steel, bruising her soft flesh—

His voice rang out harshly. "Come out of there! Move! Quick!"

CHAPTER XXXVII.

CRYSTAL grasped his thin arm with fingers that tore through the cloth? About Ralph? Why he's been financing me—he—he—

He grinned as she broke off in confusion. "I know. Say you're kind of unlucky, you and your Ma. Father due to lose his pile, and now the Sugar Papa. I'll begin to think you're a jinx!"

"Let's drop our sorrows," she said, and led him over to the music cabinet, where bottles, not music, were kept.

Over the Chianti she said, her arm around his neck. "By the way, that Cocklebur is a funny little fellow. Ugly, of course, but interested in art. I'd like to meet him sometime. Avery. You could bring him here."

"You devil!" He kissed her white throat, and the tips of her little pink ears. "You damn gold-digger! All right, my cherie, I'll bring him. Now drink—to us, to—"

But Crystal was on her feet, her finger to her lips. "Shh—quiet! The door bell! It's Ralph..."

He picked up his hat, grinning. "Au revoir, sweet!"

She grabbed at his coat. "You can't go, stupid! He'll see you. Here—hide in the kitchen. No, not the kitchen—my dressing room! Hurry!"

She shut the inner door on him just as Ralph, impatient at the delay, rang again and entered.

"Heavens, you scared me!" Crystal cried, perfectly honest for once in her life.

Then she saw the excitement that he was laboring under, his wild eyes and wet, rumpled hair. "Why, Ralph, what's the matter?"

"Oh nothing—and everything," he answered bitterly, and dropped into the nearest chair. "Just tired, perhaps. I've worked like a dog. I'm fed up with it."

She glanced quickly toward the dressing room door. Suppose Avery got tired waiting? It would be just like him to walk out if he did.

"Let's take a little ride, and you tell me about it," she coaxed. "It'll do you good to get out in the fresh air."

He stirred, shifted his feet, as if he were about to comply. "No, I'll be damned if I will. I'd rather stay here. I've been on the go all day."

She thought she heard a faint snicker behind the door... Avery laughing at her defeat... "But I have a headache—I must get out—I'll just die if I don't!"

He caught the high, hysterical note in her voice. "You poor kid," he said quickly. "Here, let me fix you. A good stiff drink is what you need. Sit still, I'll get a glass."

He saw the two that she and Avery had left on the library table.

"Use those!" she said quickly. "They're the two we had last night. Hurry up, I believe it would help. Just straight, hon. never mind ice and stuff."

He poured the drinks from his pocket flask, and brought one to her. "Drink it down. Now you'll feel better." He downed his own at a single gulp. "One more, and we'll begin to feel human."

"No more for me, Ralph. You know I never—"

"Nonsense, Crystal, this'll do you good. Or maybe you don't like it straight. I'll go get some water."

"Oh no, no—I'll take it this way."

"There! You begin to look better all ready!" He looked at her approvingly, and patted her warm pink cheek. "Why, you're positively burning up!" You've got a fever, Crystal!

"It's nothing—I'm just tired—all worn out."

"Well, there's a pair of us," He lapsed into silence again, hands in his pockets, feet spread out, staring straight ahead.

She thought of Avery's gossip. Financial troubles. The business tottering.

"Is there anything wrong at the office?" she whispered.

"Wrong? Nothing else but Crystal. I can't tell you the whole story, but briefly it's this. I'm so handicapped between that senile old fool Greeley, and that cautious young fool Winters—"

"But you could at least get rid of Winters—"

He began to walk up and down. "You don't understand. I can't even do that. I've been carrying him for most of my life, and I'll throw him out. Besides, he worships me like a dog—I couldn't turn on him..."

"He means well—he'd give up his life for me, but damn it, he'll drive me to suicide!"

"Couldn't you place him somewhere else?" she suggested practically.

"I wish to heaven I had in the beginning. I may do that yet. He's a worker—just lacks initiative and sense, that's all. I'd be a millionaire now if I didn't have the two of them on me. Now they've yelped so much that the talk is leaking out on the street, and they've almost ruined the business. That's what your friends will do to you. Friends! Lord! When it comes to business I'd rather be left to my enemies. I can fight them!"

Crystal was surprised at the thrill that shot through her, as she watched him, the big blond giant, striding up and down, waving his powerful arms, the muscles rippling under his light tweed coat.

If only he had money, lots of money; if only... she clenched her shining hands in her lap.

"Three million dollars, Crystal—do you realize that much money? Three million I'd have made, if they hadn't stopped me last June. Half a million on one deal alone. Do you wonder that I'm crazy? For two pins I'd throw up the whole thing—bent it off—the market alone. I'd be rich in six months. Rich!"

She wet her dry lips. "But you need capital to start with—lots of money—"

He whipped a wallet from his pocket, showed her a thick wad of bills. "Capital! I've got all I need. I've got enough to travel for a year or two, and get my nerve back, and still come back with a single gulp. "One more, and

I stay here in this dead outfit I'll never have more than thirty thousand a year—and what's that? I'm no piker. I don't want to live the simple life—I want—damn it—I want to live—"

He came and took her in his arms. "Excuse the oratory—I blew up—but it makes me so damn mad. If I didn't have you, I don't know what I'd do."

Her white hands played with his hair, she brushed his hot cheek lightly with her lips, the ghost of a kiss. Her heart was beating to Europe, a year of luxury, wealth to come...

"And if I didn't have you—oh, Ralph—if I didn't have you—she was murmuring... plan... make him say it now... all she could think of was her mother's maxim, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

Ralph was here—now. He was the bird in the hand—almost Handsome, too... you could fall in love with him... if you could just forget Avery... Avery who was hiding in the dressing room, listening, listening...

"I can't bear it if you go away, and leave me," she whispered so low that only Ralph could hear. "I'm so blue, too. Another keeps trying, driving me crazy. Oh if only I could get away, if only I had enough money to go to Europe too, if only... oh Ralph, what am I saying to you?"

She could feel his heart thumping against hers, she could see the dawning purpose in his eyes, and she lowered hers to hide the glint of triumph. "Crystal, you mean—Crystal, dearest, I'm afraid to say it—you mean you'd give up—your career—"

He was lifting her lovely face in his hands, studying it wonderingly, unable to believe what he had heard.
